The Shield

*The Lance — Volume XXX
Bishop Fenwick High School
99 Margin Street, Peabody, MA*

A timid newcomer slowly enters. He has heard many tales — some good, some not-so-good — about the elegant edifice in which he now stands. His shyness, however, quickly fades as he becomes acquainted with the service, entertainment and overall satisfaction of the place known among the aristocracy as The Shield.

The Shield is known by several other appellations — most commonly Bishop Fenwick. Its impeccable reputation remains unchanged. For more than thirty years, it has been the epitome of excellence, and has kept enthusiastic supporters returning on a regular basis.

Upon entering, the guest is cordially greeted by the Host and Manager, Mr. Ralph LeDuc, known on a first-name basis by the dedicated regular. He is assisted by the gentle Sr. Geraldine Burns, who make sure all the guests adhere to the establishment's guidelines. These two capable leaders are seconded by a courteous support staff which gives helpful advice and is there when needed. It is rumored that it is the distinct personalities of this staff that greatly influence the hospitable environment which all visitors experience.

The order is placed, and the meal is brought in by courses. Appetizers are not usually as elaborate or desirable as the entree, but they help to tide one over until the main course does arrive. The staff takes great pride when the entree is well-prepared to face the general public. Each entree can be complemented with various side orders. Of course, they do cost extra and only some items are available in season, but they do fulfill that desire to "try something new." The entertainment provides a break from what can be an often tedious routine. Its diversity is an added incentive to dine, and can help to expose an individual's hidden talents and creativity. Finally, a bill is presented, detailing the different dining expenses. Before departing, the guest leaves a tip, a small token of himself or herself, for posterity.

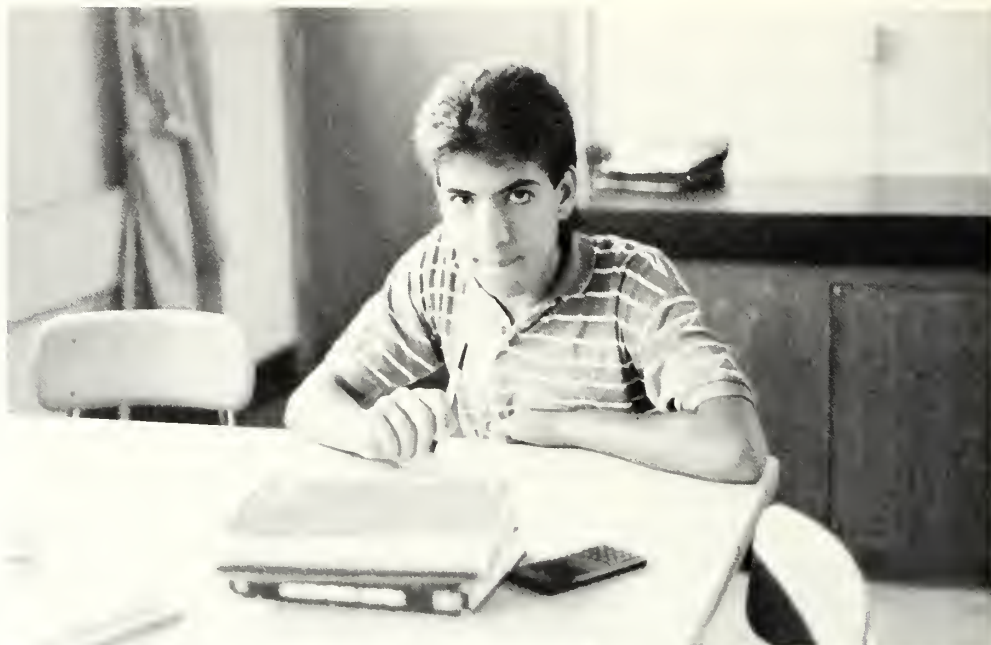

Clockwise: I don't think so! Junior President Maureen Reagan contradicts our cameraman. "Can't you scale the test?" Kerri Fields asks Mr. Kotch. Back for more: Mrs. Varoudakis' Analysis class can't get enough math. Girl Wonder: Paula Mooney displays a very creative costume. We can't wait! Kim Lau and Holly Rotundi wait eagerly for their next class.

Clockwise: Are you serious? Pia Theophiles seems to doubt Mr. K. A work of art: Patrick Downey works intently in the art room. We'll make beautiful music together: Kelly Doherty and her clarinet make a great team. Please buy a calendar: Brian Soucy and Mrs. Cormier appreciate Mr. Bloom's depiction of everyone's favorite vocalist.

Although most customers will not attend a restaurant for the sole purpose of tasting a side dish, these little extras do add another star to the ratings chart. Side dishes abound at The Shield, where patrons can choose from a multitude of options. They complement all entrees nicely and if chosen wisely, can greatly enhance one's dining experience. At The Shield, side dishes take the form of various sporting activities. Patrons can either take an active role by representing Fenwick in direct participation, or sit back and cheer on their team to victory. The only drawback of the side orders at The Shield is that they are only available in season.

Clockwise: Pen in hand. Darren Billovick prepares to take notes. Stalling for time. Kerri Fields and Tracey Rappa take a break between classes. I pledge allegiance . . . Homeroom 319 shows their patriotism. Save the enviroment. Elizabeth Garcia does her part for reecycling. Let's discuss it over lunch. Kelly Rae and Joanne Bertolino attempt to study together.

Regardless of what restaurant one frequents, there is a common bond that unites all eateries — that is the entree. The entree is the most anticipated part of the meal. Well-prepared by master chefs, the entree is the establishment's showpiece that draws numerous food connoisseurs from the surrounding area. However, even though all restaurants serve entrees, these main dishes can be as varied as the restaurants themselves.

At The Shield, the entree of choice is a symbolic one; the Senior Class. Prepared for more than three years, the Senior Class represents everything delicious at Fenwick. Because of this, The Shield's house specialty keeps people interested and coming back to this elegant dining experience.

That's amazing! Dan Walker and Marc Ortins express an interest in Michael Tibbetts' work. Chatting before class. Sarah Callahan, Elizabeth McConnell, and Jennifer Capistran aren't discussing their schoolwork. Drinks are on me. Senior President James Curran leads his fellow seniors to their retreat bus.

Very few people look forward to an appetizer. It is not usually the reason why a person decides to frequent a particular restaurant. The appetizer simply foretells better items to come. It allows the anticipation to grow and therefore gives the entree a somewhat "magical" distinction.

At The Shield, appetizers make up an even more diverse group than the entrees. Fenwick's underclassmen do not receive as much attention as its seniors, but they are an important part of the community. They do, however, provide a test of the support staff's skills (and often, their patience).

Clockwise: How's it hanging? Kathleen Brophy says to Andrea Szekely. I'm outta here! Chris Carter seems happy that another school day is over. Are you asking me? Meaghan O'Keefe sits in wonder. Is she for real? Cassia Guerrero laughs at how Jeanine Cimón makes Julie Doyle scream.

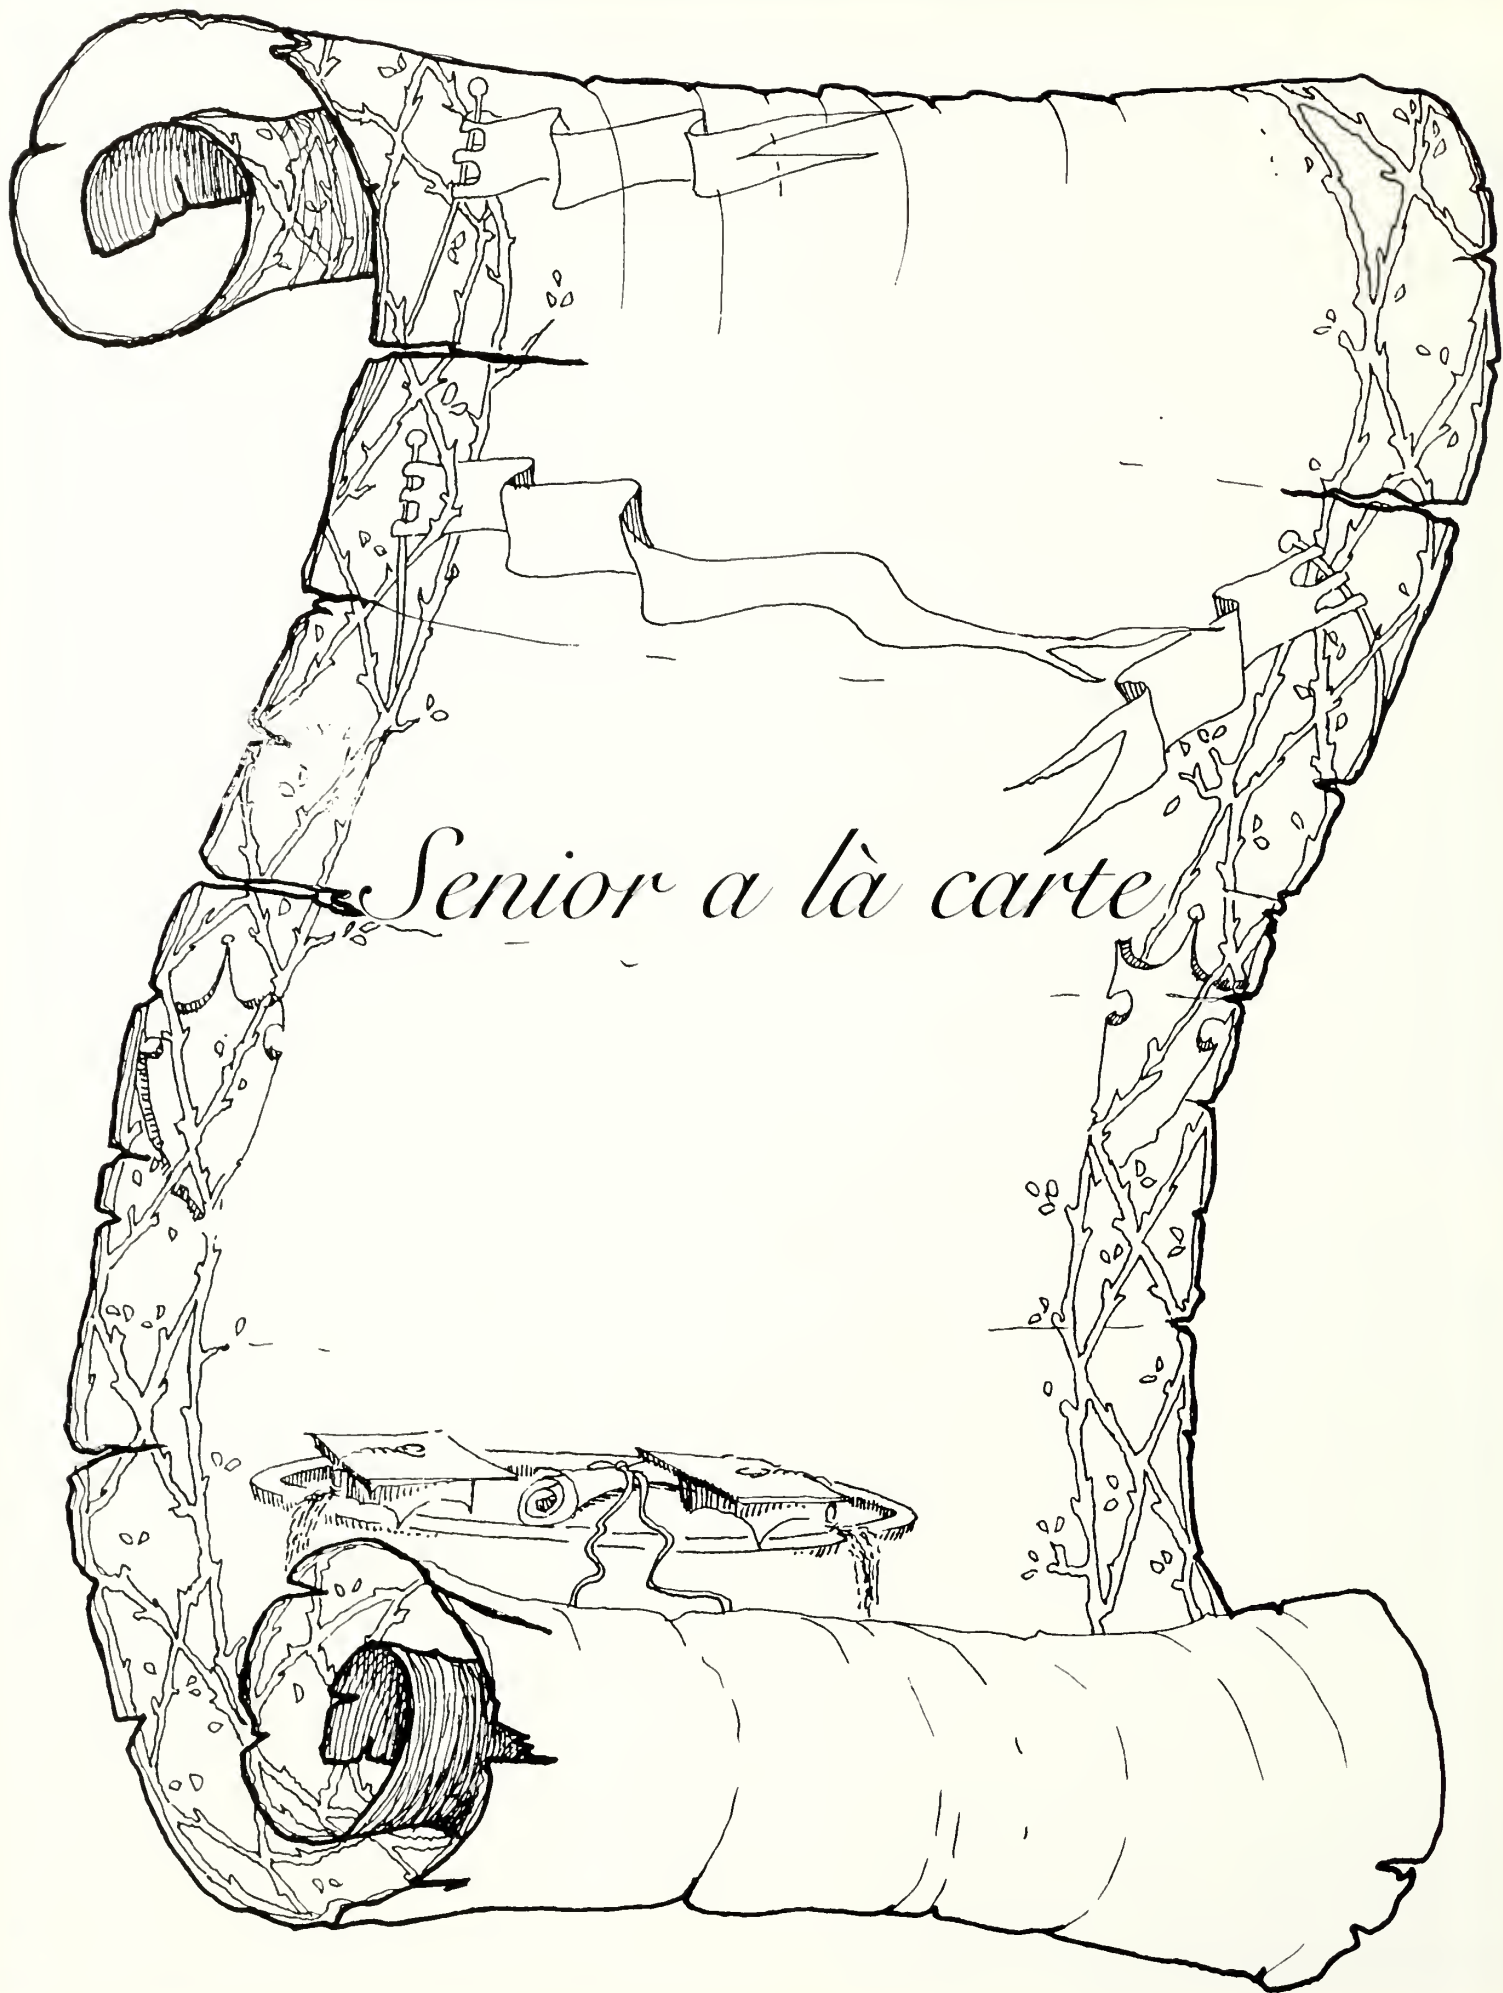

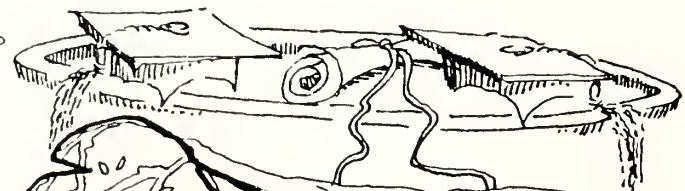

"Lights, cameras, action . . ." When it comes to entertainment, there is an extreme variety of ways in which people can be entertained. Because people like to be entertained, it is required that fashionable restaurants provide entertainment for its guests. The quality of a show may be the determining factor in whether or not a patron selects a particular restaurant. At The Shield, there is a variety of entertainment. Whether it be theater, music, art or any other form, Fenwick offers entertainment and activities to suit any customer. After eating a meal, people like to relax and take a break from the day's routine. The Shield not only tries to include activities for all of its patrons, but allow the patrons themselves to help select the type of activities and entertainment they wish to enjoy. It is the activities and entertainment that fosters the family spirit which surrounds Fenwick.

I hope the bell doesn't ring soon. Alice Reagan studies intently in the library. Come cheer us on! Caroline Martin, Kathleen Brophy, Pia Theophiles, and Samantha Hallman are dressed to play. Yes, we're back again. Jill Randazzo and Cindy Guidi are ready for another day. I need all the help I can get. Kristin Mattivello is after school for extra help.

Senior a là carte

Entrees

The great chefs of The Shield had been preparing the entrees for what seemed like an eternity. The recipe, envisioned four years prior to the Great Meal by a collaboration of the proprietor, Mr. Ralph LeDuc, and his entire service staff, consisted of a long list of instructions to be followed. However, the recipe, even with its cooking instructions, was ambiguous due to the lack of an ingredients' list. The chefs had to assume that further directions would follow and were pleasantly surprised when the proprietor gave them more than two-hundred ingredients arranged in alphabetical order. Then, the proprietor mandated the chefs to use each and every aspect of their epicurian imaginations in the preparation of the entrees.

Four years later, the chefs finally completed the entrees. Although prepared in the same restaurant, each entree emerged as a distinctive sensory delight. Patrons raved about their outer beauty, ambrosial taste, delicious aroma and even their intrinsic qualities that are so special they cannot be described. Served with a Certificate of Authenticity, complete with the fabled restaurant's name and the appellation of the repast, the entrees epitomize the tenets that The Shield holds most dear. Since an average meal at The Shield is better than the best at other establishments, most entrees are entered into higher-level culinary competitions.

In most cases, eating is a transitory experience; however, at the renowned restaurant, memories last a lifetime. A patron's four years at The Shield are ones that are looked back upon in fondness and prove influential in all future life experiences.

The Old Blend with the New

In September, during one of those Indian Summer days, the Seniors and Freshmen joined together for the traditional Bishop Fenwick "Buddy Day." In a hopeful spirit of newly found friendship, Freshmen and Seniors shoved through the swarms of people to find their buddies and introduce themselves once again. Thoughts such as; "Will he like me?" "What is her name again?" Are they cool?" clutter the minds of both Freshman and Seniors.

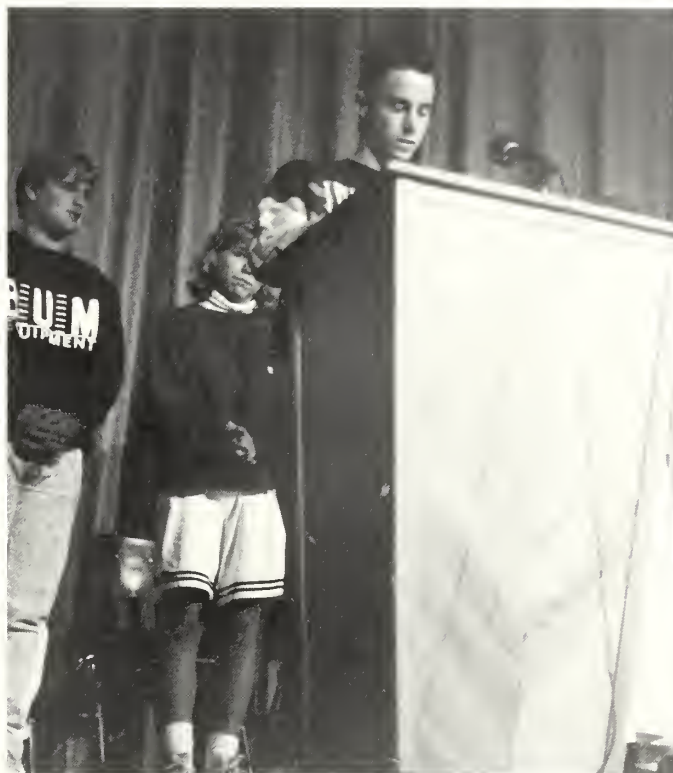

This year's Buddy Day began with a celebration of Mass in the auditorium. The Mass held the theme of "There are no strangers here; just friends who haven't met." After Mass, the students flocked outdoors to participate in activities like soccer, volleyball, limbo, and basketball. The activities closely resembled free-for-all's rather than organized sports, although nobody seemed to mind.

Of course, no event is complete without a delicious Fenwick meal. Subs, soda, and desserts were served and the buddies enjoyed a friendly lunch.

After lunch, it was back to the playing fields. Before the Freshmen and Seniors knew it, the day came to an end. Everyone involved learned something important. The Freshmen learned that everyone is a part of the Fenwick family. The Seniors realized that Freshmen are people, too.

New Friends: Danielle Shuckra and Jen Tighe embrace each other as a sign of new friendship. How low can you go? Stacey Crowley struts her stuff in the Limbo Contest.

Who said spiking was hard? A group of seniors get into the game on the net. Can I have your attention please? Darrin Estella captures the attention of buddies at Mass. What is she doing? Kristen Norcross throws the phantom basketball into the air. Terrific twosome: Anna Lopresti and Elyse Keith take time out from a hard day of play.

Clockwise: It's too early: Heather Sverker is not yet ready to face the new day. Do you have a cure for homework? Dena Caporale and Erin Morrison seek help from Mrs. Dzierzak. Football anyone? Greg Lowe and Lisa Silva promote spirit for the football team. Lace them up! Cheryl Budaj prepares for a game. The best part of the day. Kevin Crowell, Rebecca Martineau and Karen Murphy enjoy lunch.

Clockwise: A huddle of friends: A group of senior girls congregate outside the classroom. The day's end: Katie Bastille and Kristen Adamo strike a pose as they look for their car. "The Mercedes is in the shop," Mary Goot explains to Samantha Catanzano while waiting for a ride. Casual chat: Sue Dembowski and Jill Randazzo relax after school. What day is it? Karlyn Kong appears to be in a state of confusion.

I'll Be There — '91

Clockwise: Friends forever: Crystale Dion, Karen Jodoin, and Dena Caporale stand arm in arm. Let's get crazy: Jason Ellis, Darrin Estella, Michael Murphy, James Curran, and Sean Andrews steal the show. Crowded quarters: Despite a mobbed dance floor, couples find somewhere to dance. Are we having fun yet? Couples smile pretty for the camera. Bosom Buddies: Mark Swinarski and Casey Arena share a passionate embrace.

Clockwise: Girls Just Wanna Have Fun: Jill Douglas, Andrea Szekeley, Danielle Shuckra, Kristen Daley, and Julie Carnevale take a moment for a friendly pose. What are we looking for? Chris Carter, Jason Ellis, Darrin Estella, Patrick O'Connor, Adam Spates, Gina DiFonzo, and Tara Sullivan are taken off guard. Dancing the night away: Patrick O'Connor leads Gina DiFonzo to the ballroom floor. The final product: Fenwick couples show off their arduous preparations for the ball. Tempting trio: Deborah Burba, Erin Morrison, and Crystale Dion show their best smiles.

Katelyn K. Draper
President — SAC

As I stand here now, gazing down two paths, I know I must choose one and take it . . . There's one great truth that I can't escape — My life will be what I make it.

— Dick Johnson

Ambition: To advocate for the voiceless generations — the young and old.

James P. Curran
Senior Class President

If I leave here tomorrow, would you still remember me? Well I must be traveling on now. 'Cause there's too many places I've got to see. If I stay here with you now, things just could not be the same. 'Cause I'm as free as a bird now, and this bird you cannot change.

— Lynyrd Skynard

Ambition: To be a successful radiological technician living in the beautiful state of Maine with a loving wife and three loving children.

Samantha J. Catanzano
Senior Class Vice-President

Don't lose your way
With each passing day.
You've come so far,
Don't throw it away.
Live your story,
Faith, hope, and glory,
Hold to the truths in your heart.

— The Land Before Time

Ambition: To find that one small thing to help me accomplish anything.

Michael J. Varoudakis
Secretary-Treasurer SAC

It's my prerogative, I can do what I want to do.

— Bobby Brown

Ambition: To be on the cover of G.Q.

Erin C. Morrison
SAC — Representative

Looking back, I realize that we were at our best. We were all in it together, sharing the same hopes, fears, and dreams. Now there is only one direction to go and we'll go together.

— The Wonder Years

Ambition: To be happy and successful but never to forget where it is that I came from or the people who let me be what I wanted to be. Thanks Mom and Dad. Karin, the best is yet to come.

Kristin J. Adamo

A fool can lose tomorrow, looking back on yesterday.

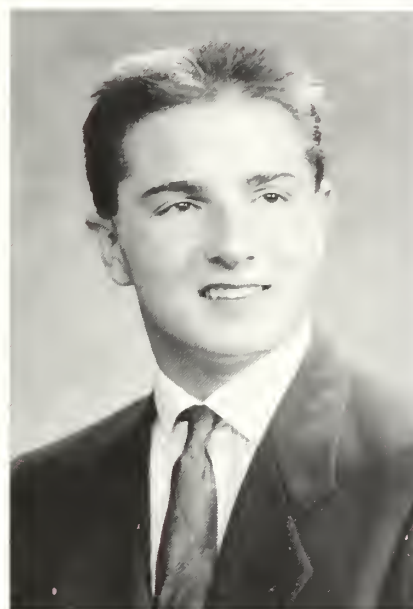

— Dionne Warwick

Ambition: To be the best that I can be and most importantly, make my parents proud of me.

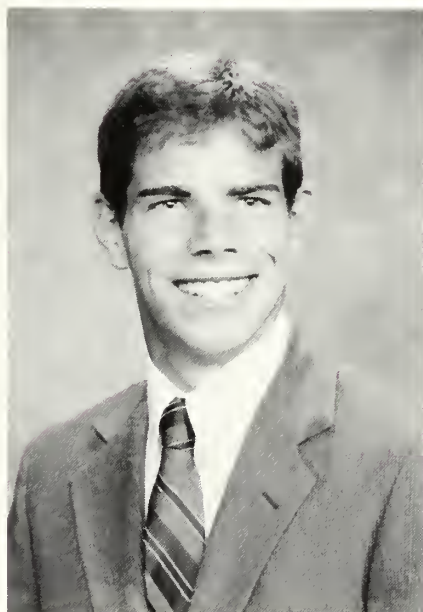

Eric J. Alukonis
These are seasons of emotion, and like the wind they rise and fall. This is the wonder of devotion. I see the torch, we all must go, this is the mystery of the quotient, upon us all a little rain must fall.

— Led Zeppelin

Ambition: To be rich, successful, and happy.

Sean P. Andrews

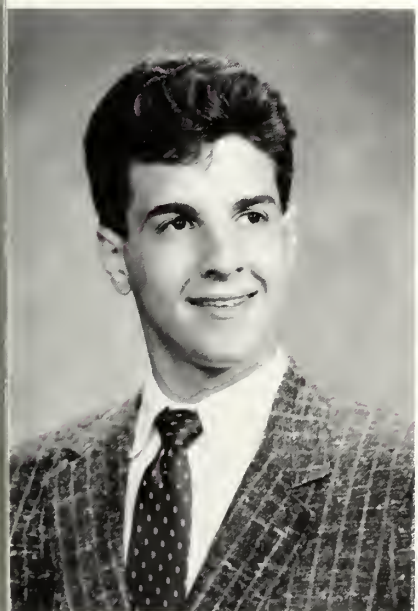

Casey R. Arena

Sometimes you have to do things that you really don't want to do, to get where you want to be.

— Casey Arena

Ambition: To play with the best of them, baby.

Benjamin R. Bade

If you should feel that I don't really care, and that you're starting to lose ground. Just let me reassure you that you can count on me and I'll always be around.

— Stevie B

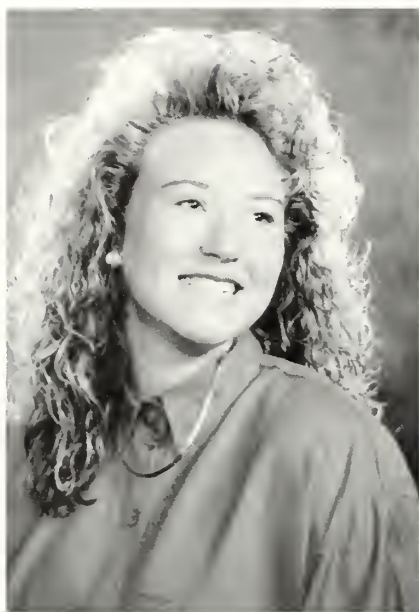

Ambition: To be happily married and to have a good job in the field of environmental science, making $6.5 million a year.

Katherine T. Bastille
Don't look back, don't be scared, we've got the dreams and we're still young. Just think about how far we've come. Think of all we have shared. It's a wonder we've survived, but here we are and we're alive. Years from now, somewhere down the line, we'll remember and we'll sing one more time.

— Michael Bolton

Ambition: To look back on my life and not see any unfulfilled dreams.

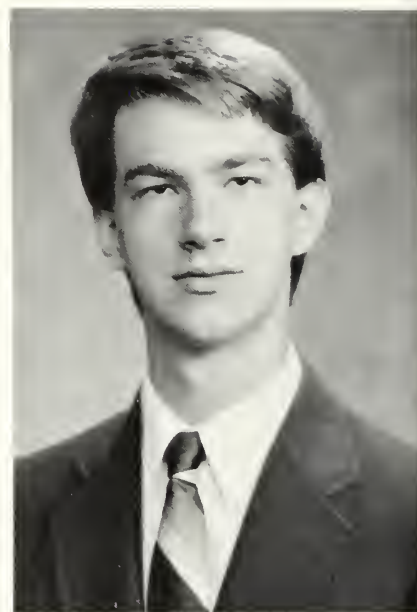

Theresa A. Bater

Nature's first green is gold, her hardest hue to hold. Her early leaf's a flower, but only so an hour. Then leaf subsides to leaf. So Eden sank to grief, so dawn goes down to day, nothing gold can stay.

— Robert Frost

Ambition: To keep my ear on the road and away from the big white houses.

Craig M. Benson

One day to a new beginning
Every man will be a king
There's a new world for the winning

Do you hear the people sing?

— Herbert Kretzmer

Ambition: To win the new world.

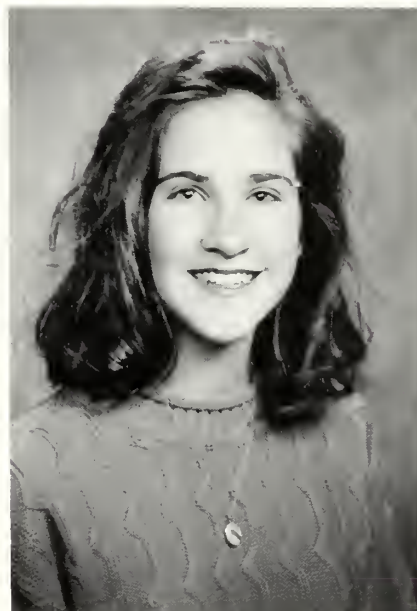

Cara T. Bertelli

Goodbye my friends, for I am on my way to an unknown world and a brand new day. Remember that the best of friends one day must part but your friendships will forever remain in my heart.

— C.T.B.

Ambition: To get through each day with a smile and to live life to the fullest.

Lisa A. Berube

I define nothing. Not beauty, not patriotism. I take each thing as it is, without prior rules about what it should be.

— Bob Dylan

Ambition: To realize I can't change the world but I can change the world in me.

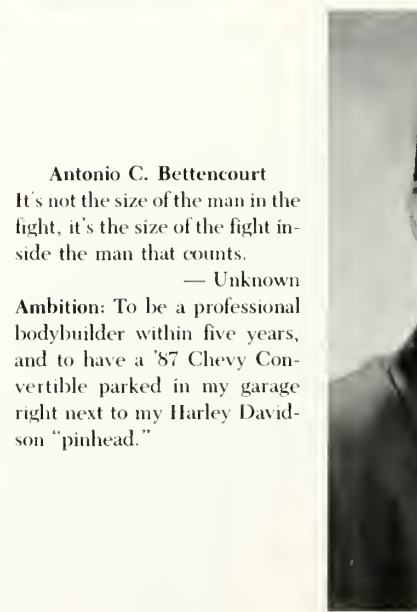

Elaine M. Bettencourt

My bags are packed. I'm ready to go.

— Pope John XXIII

Ambition: To keep in my memory the friendships and special moments that happened in the past 4 years, especially April 7, 1990. To always be there for my best friend, Julie, and to thank Erie for helping me to be my own person. Also, to thank my family for their support and to make them proud.

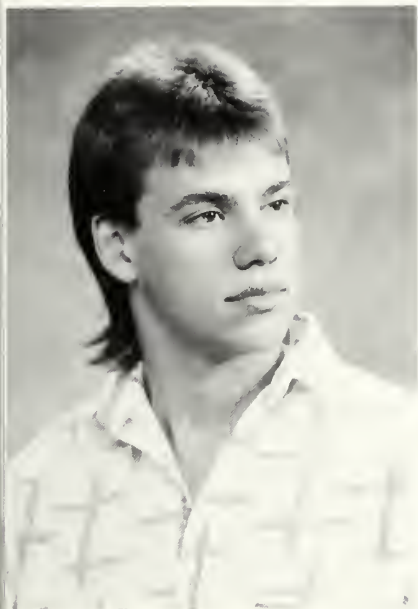

Antonio C. Bettencourt

It's not the size of the man in the fight, it's the size of the fight inside the man that counts.

— Unknown

Ambition: To be a professional bodybuilder within five years, and to have a '87 Chevy Convertible parked in my garage right next to my Harley Davidson "pinhead."

Craig T. Bettencourt
The future in the hands of Our Youth will be safe no more. No more lies.
— Motley Crue
Ambition: To be rich.

Karin A. Bettencourt
How far is near, how near is far,
If you look up now, we still see the same star.

— Jack Piatt
Ambition: To remember all the good times with my family and friends while I'm cruising with Erin in our white Cabriolet convertible.

Sheila A. Bonfanti
Well some say life will beat you down,
Break your heart, steal your crown
So, I've started out for God knows where,
I guess I'll know when I get there.

— Tom Petty
Ambition: To be an exotic belly dancer in Venezuela hanging with the V-posse and to meet the guy of my dreams.

Amy E. Britt
Gather ye rosebuds while ye may/
Old time is still a-flying/
And this same flower that smiles today/
Tomorrow will be dying.

— Robert Herrick
Ambition: To be as smart as Jill, as spontaneous as Pia, as soft spoken as Danielle, as career-oriented as Heather and as good a friend as all of them.

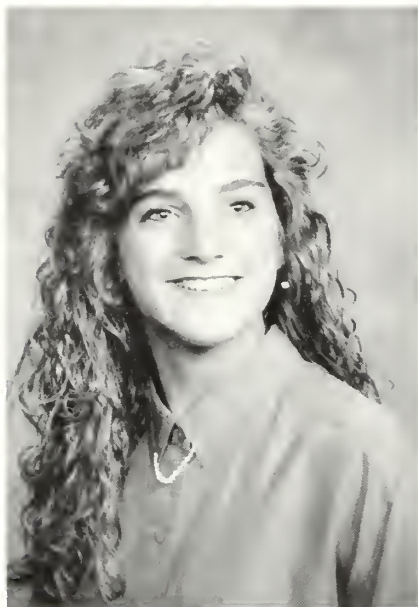

Kathleen T. Brophy
A smile is a language that even a baby can understand.
— Unknown
Ambition: To always be surrounded by close friends.

Cheryl L. Budaj
Indeed it may seem that we have strange ways, but we do it with compassion and don't believe in age.

— Red Hot Chili Peppers
Ambition: To travel the globe in my search for those on the other side of the cliff who possess Ramforest crunch, Teeth, Plaid, Tents, a good sense of direction and together we will free the world from lavender, turquoise and dots.

Deborah M. Burba

Success is to be measured not so much by the position that one has reached in life as by the obstacles which he has overcome while trying to succeed.

— Booker T. Washington

Ambition: To be all that I can be.

Ursula A. Burrell

Hold on take your life/ Hold on to each reality/ They seem so far from you/ But really they're close to you/ You've got to break each precious dream/ Until it breaks your heart in two/ Build your life until you find what's right for you.

— E.M.F.

Ambition: To follow my dreams . . . be happy and make my parents proud. And to go to San Luis Obispo and open a deli next to a tattoo parlor.

Jennifer A. Butler

My friends, the moment has come for us to say goodbye, but goodbye won't last forever. As we take each step on the road of our dreams, always remember the good times we've had and what we've achieved. Then on the day that our paths cross again, and all of our goals have been accomplished, we can say we've succeeded.

— Mikaela

Ambition: To follow my rainbow and make my family and friends proud.

Sandy J. Calomo

In the days of my youth I was told what it means to be a man. Now that I've reached that age I try to do all those things the best I can.

— Led Zeppelin

Ambition: To graduate from college, to be successful in whatever I do and to achieve all my goals.

Tara R. Camarda

We have come to a point where we must go, for the next time we meet I do not know.

As time goes on and while we're apart, we'll have our memories in our hearts.

— T.C.

Ambition: I hope to mean as much to my children as my parents do to me; they have always done everything to make my life easier and better.

Richard L. Cameron

The world is closing in Did you ever think
That we could be so close,
like brothers.

The future's in the air
I can feel it everywhere Blowing with the wind of change.

— Scorpions

Ambition: In the future, I'm planning on going to college and becoming an electrical engineer. After that, I hope to work at Raytheon in Andover, Mass., and continue living in the Peabody area.

Dena Caporale

I know about the strength
I get from a close family
I'm learning about the value of hard work,
Throughout life I will keep striving.

— Dad

Ambition: To always be smiling with everyone around me.

Christine M. Carideo

Those who bring sunshine into the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves.

— James Barrie

Ambition: To be what I wanna be and do what I wanna do!!!

Laura M. Carlson
So many times it happens too fast,
You change your passion for glory.
Don't lose a grip on the dreams of the past
You must fight just to keep them alive.

— Survivor

Ambition: To be successful in whatever I do — and to live life to the fullest.

Anthony P. Carnevale Jr.
All I want is to have my peace of mind.

— Boston

Ambition: To work with my father in his own business.

Julie Carnevale

If I knew then what I know now I wouldn't have had nearly as much fun.

— Suz door

Ambition: Still smiling with a story to tell.

Amy M. Carpenter
Celebrate what you have achieved today, for it will give you the strength and courage to face the challenges of tomorrow.

— AMC

Ambition: I'll be ridin' waves and catchin' rays at my ocean front beach house with my best friends.

Kristen M. Carr

The path of life has many cross-roads, and at each one it's difficult to say good-bye and go on our own separate ways, choosing the direction that is right for each of us. But the memory of being together will always remain, and there is always the chance that our paths will cross again.

— Donna Yee

Ambition: To give "Sara O'Hara" her ten percent, then celebrate with the posse.

Christopher R. Carter

I didn't want to be a follower, I wanted to be a leader. I had to be different, I had to be me. I had to show people what I was made of. God bless my friends for respecting my decisions and standing by me. Thank you God for giving me talent, and giving me good values.

— Bobby Brown

Ambition: To be the best I can be in life, especially on the golf course.

Nicole L. Carter

What we anticipate seldom occurs, what we least expect generally happens.

— Benjamin Disraeli

Ambition: To go to college and to make the best I can out of my life and myself.

Daisy Chhatwal

When you wish upon a star, it makes no difference who you are; anything your heart desires will come true.

— Jimmy Cricket

Ambition: To live out all my dreams. Thanks Mom and Dad.

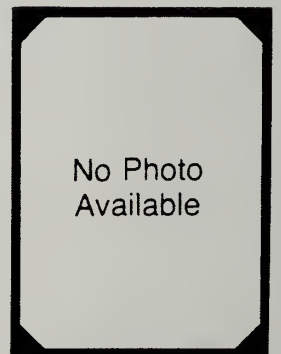

Jeanine A. Cimon

Smile, it makes people wonder what you've been up to.

— Unknown

Ambition: To always remain as happy and carefree as I've been in high school, but to watch out for vans, ditches and the Burger King on Dorchester Ave.

Todd Compton

Deanna M. Conlon

The problem with the future is that it keeps turning into the present.

— Calvin & Hobbes

Ambition: To be happy in whatever I do, remembering that it was my parents' love and encouragement that got me there.

Jeff S. Connelly

I wished you believed in life, believed in fate, believed you were lucky and worth the wait 'cause life could be lovely, life could be so great.

— Til Tuesday

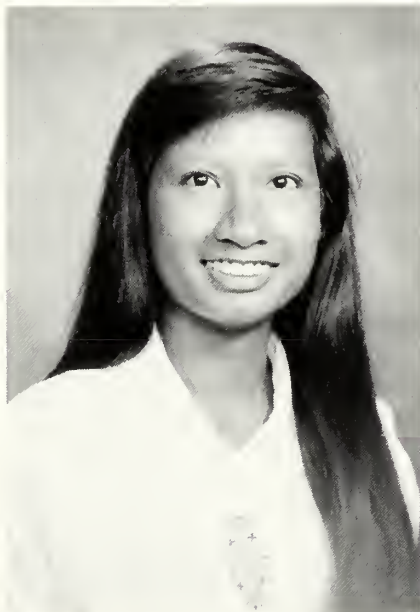

Ambition: I hope to see your pets at my hospital when I become a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine.

Tara M.K. Connelly

If you are lonely, and a friend you need, like a river flows, you hurt, I'll bleed. If you trust in me we will find a way, take away the pain. Time heals all things. Even in a lonely state of mind 'cause happiness is hard to find, If you're lonely, I'll be there.

— Janet Jackson

Ambition: To become a renowned archaeologist and writer.

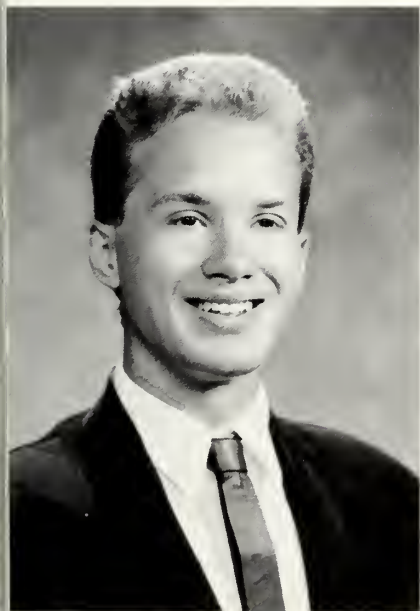

Sean C. Connolly

Leaves are falling all around, time I was on my way. Thanks to you I'm much obliged for such a pleasant stay. Now it's time for me to go. The Autumn moon lights my way.

— Led Zeppelin

Ambition: Early retirement.

Mark P. Cormier

The problem is not the problem itself. It is the person behind it.

— M.A.N.

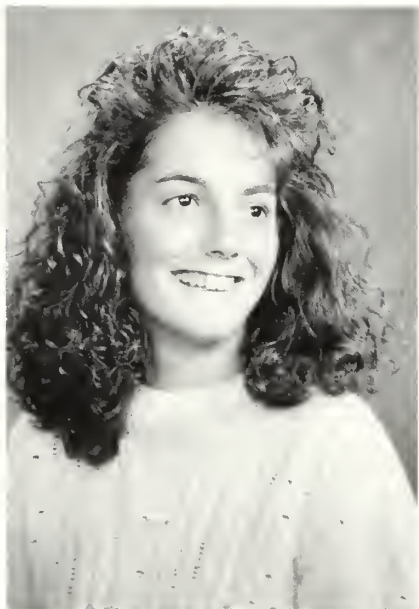

Ambition: To live a long, healthy, happy life with the one I love most, away from it all, and to be successful in all that I do.

Bonnie Correia

"... here I stand, not only with the sense of present pleasure, but with pleasing thoughts that in this moment there is life and food for future years."

— William Wordsworth

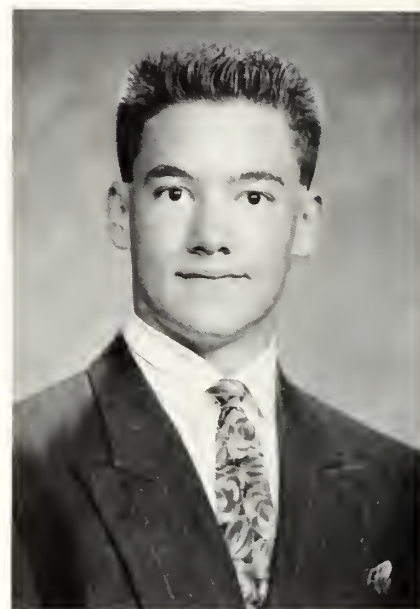

Michele L. Corriveau

May the Good Lord be with you down every road you roam, and may sunshine and happiness surround you when you're far from home, and may you grow to be proud, dignify the truth, and do unto others as they have done to you. Be courageous and be brave and in my heart you'll always stay Forever Young. Thanks Mom, Dad, Jonathan, and Amy.

— Rod Stewart

Ambition: To be a physical education teacher and also to be a wife and mother.

Kevin M. Crowell

Good times, bad times, you know I've had my share.

— Led Zeppelin

Ambition: To go to California with my buddy "Dales," get a house on the beach and live life to the fullest.

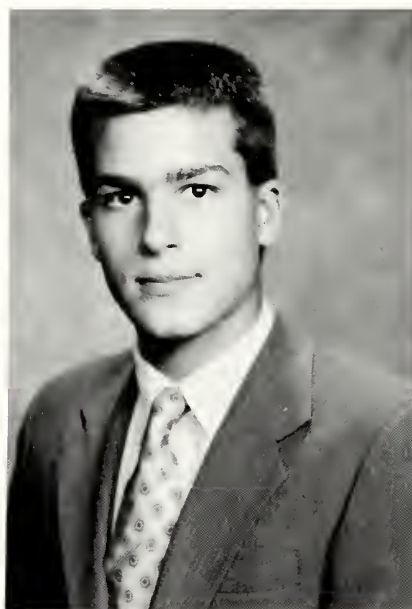

Christen C. Cushing

It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday, but I'll take with me the memories to be my sunshine after the rain.

— Boyz II Men

Ambition: To achieve all of my goals.

Sean P. Dailey

There are two paths you can go, but in the long run there is still time to change the one you're on.

— Led Zeppelin

Ambition: To go to California with nothing and come back with everything!

Kristen M. Day

The grand essentials of happiness are: something to do, something to love, and something to hope for.

— Anonymous

Ambition: To become a travel agent, build up my own business, and eventually get married to Chris.

Megan S. Day

Don't walk in front of me, I may not follow.

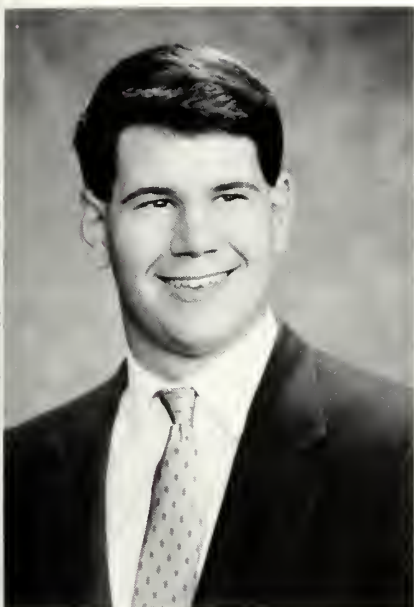

Don't walk behind me, I may not lead.

Just walk beside me and be my friend.

— Albert Camus

Ambition: To be the first female Pope!

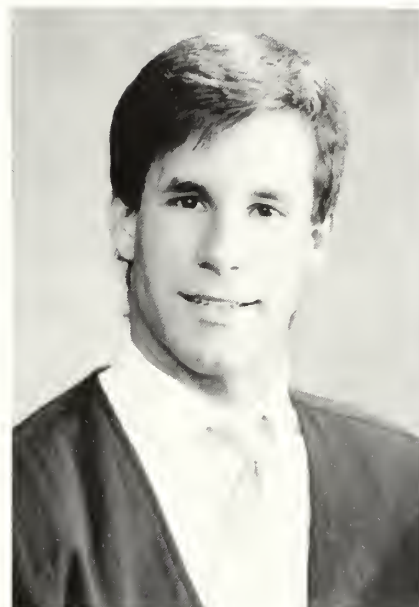

Thomas J. Day

I may not be perfectly wise, I may not be perfectly witty or perfectly wonderful, but I am perfectly me.

— T.D.

Ambition: To complete the search for the eternal buzz and run a cruiseline to Margaritaville with Mike T. LJ, Swini, Oak, Buddah, Mike V. and Tom O.

Dana M. DeGennaro

Love isn't always flowers and poems. It's also compassion and forgiveness.

— Doogie Howser M.D.

Ambition: 10 years from now, I wish to be cooking in my own restaurant.

Susan J. Dembowski

To look back on these years and remember my friends and all the pain and difficulties we have been through together. But to hold on to the good times we shared, the things they taught me, and the love I found forever.

— SJD

Ambition: To travel down life's river, bumping softly into the cow's noses.

Denise A. Deon

How do I say goodbye to what we have had, the good times that made us laugh/ I'll take with me the memories, It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.

— Boyz II Men

Ambition: To become a psychiatrist so I can sit there, smile, and get paid for listening to people's problems.

Mary Beth Devarenne

Each year we grow a little more, sometimes leaving behind a part of ourselves we can never again capture. I sometimes think the future arrives before we are ready to give up the present.

— Unknown

Ambition: To live a long, happy and successful life.

Tania A. Diachisin

I knew there would come a day, when I would look back at all the bad times and laugh, but I never thought there would come a day, when I would look back on all the good times and cry.

— Unknown

Ambition: To be living it up on the beaches of Florida with the one I love.

Gina DiFonzo

Life is too short to worry, think of how good yesterday was and how great tomorrow will be.

— G. D.

Ambition: To be one step ahead of all of you. Thanks Mom, Dad, Dante, and Ralph. I made it!!

Crystale A. Dion

Determination is all you need to get you what you want; never give up because almost doesn't count.

— C.A.D.

Ambition: I don't know where I'll be but wherever I am you can count on one thing . . . you'll hear me!

Kelley J. Dionne

I have finally found a way to live, just like I never could before. I know that I don't have much to give, but I can open any door. Everybody knows the secret, everybody knows the score. I have finally found a way to live in the presence of the Lord.

— Eric Clapton

Ambition: Remembering all the good times I shared with my friends.

Kathleen A. Donahue

Nicole, Beth, Valerie, Paula, Connie, Daisy, Ursula, PARTY! Gratitude takes three forms: a feeling in the heart, an expression in words, and giving in return. Thanks!

— K.A.D.

Ambition: To be rich, happy, and have a big family.

Jodi M. Dorfman

Remember the laughter as we go our separate ways. There's so much we're still learning, we just can't be afraid. There's a world outside our door, nothing's in our way; but if it's not what we're looking for, we'll meet again someday.

— Jack Wagner

Ambition: To be as successful as I can be in whatever I choose to do . . . once I choose something.

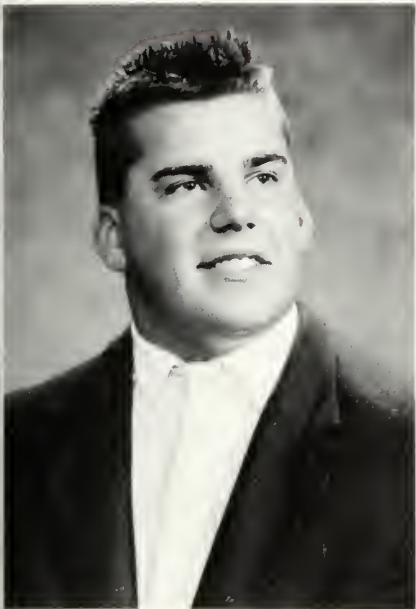

Jill E. Douglas

There comes a time, when we need a certain call. When the world must come together as one.

— USA for Africa

Ambition: To save the world.

Patrick S. Downey
Don't call me a Hero.

— P.S.D.

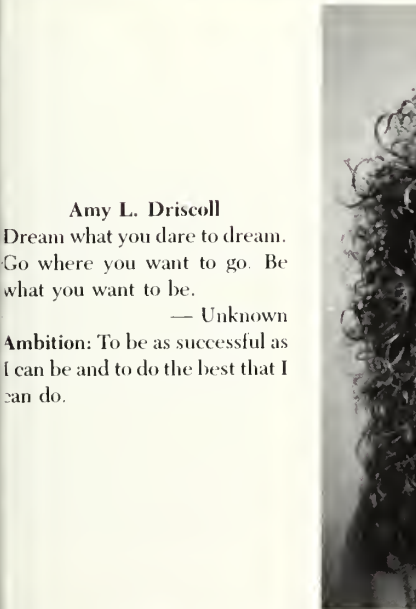

Ambition: To play on the same college football team as my brother, Booga, and to be able to give back to my parents all the things they have given me in life.

Julie N. Doyle

Always remember to forget the things that made you sad, but never forget to remember the things that made you glad. Always remember to forget the friends that proved untrue, but don't forget to remember those that have stuck by you.

— Old Irish Proverb

Ambition: To never forget the funny times, 4/7/90, and my best friend Elaine. And to some day be on my own!

Amy L. Driscoll

Dream what you dare to dream. Go where you want to go. Be what you want to be.

— Unknown

Ambition: To be as successful as I can be and to do the best that I can do.

Cathie L. Dufour

Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice; it is not something to be waited for, it is something to be achieved.

— William Jennings Bryant

Ambition: To become successful in whatever I attempt and most of all to make my parents proud of me.

Jason A. Ellis

I'll take with me the memories to be my sunshine after the rain. It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.

— Boyz II Men

Ambition: To be successful and secure without losing sight of the principles on which I grew.

Darrin G. Estella

To find ourselves, sometimes we have to lose ourselves.

— Mickey Rourke

Ambition: To be happy and successful. To always remember my friends, Lyn, and teachers.

Kerri-Anne V. Fields

What lies behind us and what lies before us are little matters compared to what lies within us.

— Ralph Waldo Emerson

Ambition: To live a happy and successful life filled with love, never forgetting the people I left behind and never leaving behind the people I can't forget.

Sheila A. Figurido

Open your eyes and see who I am, and not who you want for me to be, I am only myself.

— Gloria Estefan

Ambition: To make all my dreams come true and enjoy my life with the one I love.

Kathleen M. Flynn

Stand up, stand up. The more you do it the less you fall down. Stand up, stand up. Put your head in the clouds, and your feet on the ground. Stand up, stand up. For the time of your life, you turn it up loud.

— David Lee Roth

Ambition: To fulfill my dreams. Thank you all my friends, especially Mom and Dad. I love you Mark.

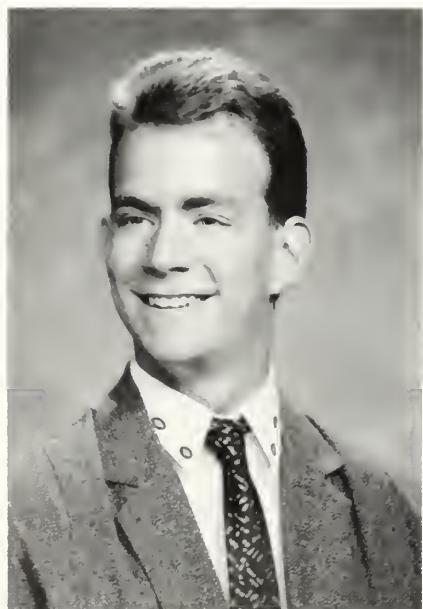

John C. Fortini

Welcome to the Jungle, it gets worse here every day. Learn to live like an animal in the Jungle where we play. You've got to hunger for what you see. Take it eventually, you can't have anything you want, but you better not take it from me in the Jungle.

— Guns 'n' Roses

Ambition: To live the life of luxury, living off the money my wonderful wife, Jen, makes.

Sean D. Gagnon

You can make it, but first you must endure.

— Clarence Thomas

— Prince

Ambition: In my future I hope to be happy and to be working with young children.

Mary K. Goot

. . . we are always seeking support. First we should notice that we are already supported. Every moment there is the earth below our feet and the air filling and emptying our lungs. We should begin from this when we need support. There is the sunlight coming through the window and the silence of the morning.

— Natalie Goldberg

Casey R. Granese

Got no way of knowin'/ What the future's gonna bring/ So I'll listen to my heart 'cause it's never lied to me/ And what is meant to be . . .

— Nelson

Melissa, Colleen, and Sue — told ya I'd make it!!!

— C.G.

Ambition: To be anywhere as long as I'm happy and rich!!!

George O. Hart

Prayer in my pocket
But no hand in destiny
I'll just keep moving along
No time to plant my feet.
— Guns 'n' Roses

Chester A. Hineman

You make a difference in the lives of those around you, as those lives also have an effect on you. If one is willing to think, to care, and to try, then the possibility for the effect being positive is much greater. The choice is yours.

— F. Quinn

Ambition: To sit in my cruiser at Dunkin' Donuts — waiting for the "Big One."

Kathryn M. Lombard

I have no clue.

— K.M.L.

Ambition: To get a clue and to have the time of my life wherever my friends may be.

Anna C. LoPresti

I knew there would come a day when I'd look back on the bad times and laugh. But I never thought there would come a day when I'd look back on the good times and cry.

— Unknown

Ambition: I hope to pay back my closest friends, Lorina, Matt, Brian, Jackie, Steve, and Koren for all the love and support they have given me.

Gina L. Loukareas
So what do we do with our lives
We leave only a mark
Will our story shine like a light
Or end in the dark

Give it all or nothing!

— Mad Max

Ambition: To thank Jim and Chris C. for never letting me drive their standard/automatic cars and to thank Melanie, Dennee, Jackie, Kerry, Cathy, Lesley, Suzanne, Sondra, Mom, Dad, Grandma and Mimi for the best of everything. Look for me on the N.Y. Times' best seller list!

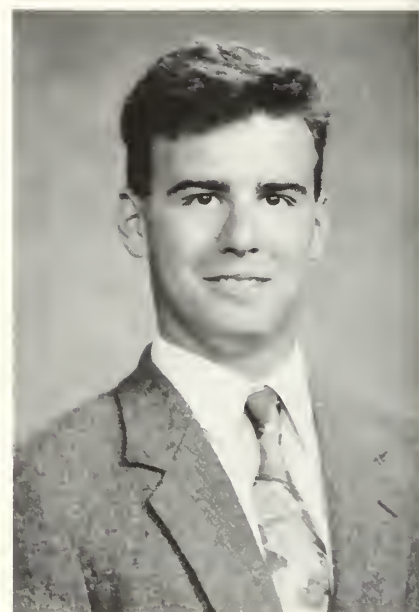

Gregory P. Lowe

I learned this, at least, by my experiences; that if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with success unexpected in common hours.

— Henry David Thoreau

Ambition: To coach for the NBA World Champions, the Miami Heat.

Justin P. MacCarthy

If something goes wrong it was supposed to, so just let it happen because if you change it, it will just break again.

— ME

Ambition: I would like to make it through High School and move on to college and make my life in wildlife management or fishery management.

Brian M. Mahoney

It's just a ball of dust underneath my feet. It rolls around the sun, doesn't mean that much to me. Take a chance on the edge of life, cause there's no position for second best.

— Cheap Trick

Ambition: To have my name on the side of a $50 million fighter aircraft.

Christopher P. Marsella

There is only one success — to be able to spend your life in your own way.

— Christopher Morley

Ambition: To look to the future with anticipation and to the past with satisfaction. Thanks to Mom, Dad, and Jen.

Caroline L. Martin

And maybe then the future will be a time without war, destitution, and sorrow. And hungry children won't have to die. If we work together today we'll save tomorrow.

— Mariah Carey

Ambition: To make History Her-story.

Rebecca A. Martineau

Success is getting what you want. Happiness is wanting what you get.

— Punky Brewster

Ambition: To learn everything there is to know about life and live to tell about it.

Kendra G. McCarthy

Greetings!

Excuse me one moment, I remind you that Tomorrow, it will be all or it will be nothing. It depends on the passion. It will be dirty, it will be a dream, Be careful . . . It will be useful, It will be late. Do your best, and have trust in the power of Tomorrow.

— Paul Simon

Ambition: I would like to be teaching special education and traveling the world.

Sean C. McCarthy

What we anticipate seldom occurs, what we least expect generally happens.

— Benjamin Disraeli

Ambition: To live every day as if there was no tomorrow.

Sean P. McConnell

The cactus stands firm on the desert plain, juicing fluids from its desolate environment. Two solo mc's absorbed and deciphered culture from far rock-away to Bedford-Stuyvesant and, like the desert plant, stood alone.

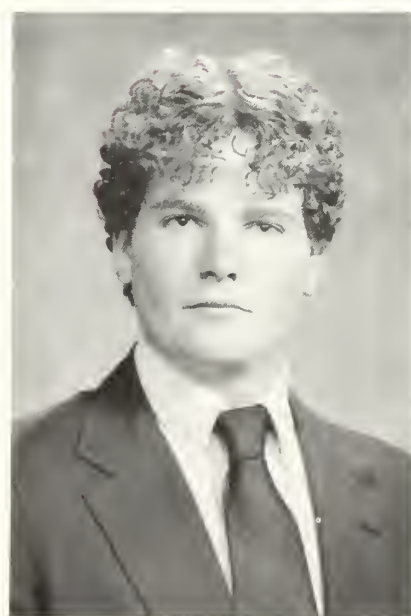

— 3rd Bass

Ambition: I would like to graduate from college with an environmental degree. I would also like to ski Mount Everest.

Andrew G. McDonough
To laugh often and love much, to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children . . . to know that even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded.

I'll take with me the memories to be my sunshine after the rain. It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday.

— Boyz II Men

Joseph A. Mocerri

Standing on a hill with a mountain of dreams telling myself it's not as hard as it seems.

— Led Zeppelin

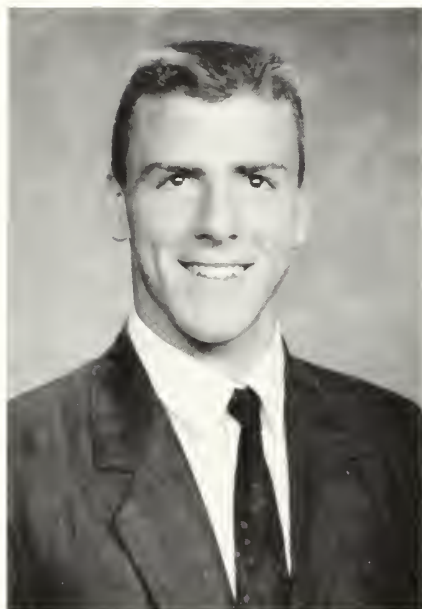

Ambition: To be as successful as my father.

Paula M. Mooney
All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate school mountain, but there in a sand pile at Sunday School. When you go out into the real world, watch out for the traffic, hold hands and stick together.

— Robert Fulghum

Ambition: To live a balanced life — learn some, think some, draw and paint and sing and dance and play everyday some. Take a nap every afternoon.

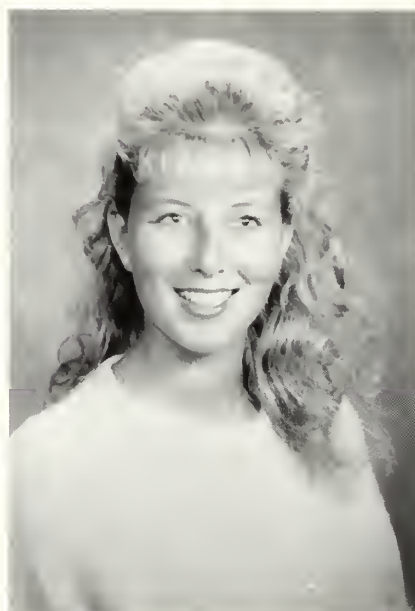

Dennis J. Moore
All in all, you're just another brick in the wall.
— Pink Floyd
Ambition: Early retirement.

Karen D. Murphy
Sooner or later, you start taking yourself seriously. You know when you need a break, what to get worked up about and what to get rid of. And you know when to take care of yourself to make you stronger, more complete.
Because it's never too late to have a life, and never too late to change one.

— Nike
Ambition: To sing and dance back up for Michael Jackson with a few select friends.

Michael T. Murphy
Give me a whisper, and give me a sigh/ Give me a kiss before you tell me goodbye/ don't you take it so hard now and please don't take it so bad/ I'll still be thinking of you and the times we had.
— Guns 'n' Roses
Ambition: To graduate and go to the Navy or Marines.

Melissa L. Murray
If you spread your dreams before you like a stairway to the sky
. . . No star you ever reach for will ever be too high.

— Unknown
Ambition: I plan to graduate from college with a masters in communication, and to someday have a family, also not to forget
Burger King on Dot Ave. and April 7, 1990. Thanks to Mom,
Dad, Kelli, and Tommy, I love you all!

Stephen A. Nichol
Knowledge reigns supreme over nearly everyone.
— B. D. P.

William R. Nolan, Jr.
Sometimes you think you're a player, and the other a fool;
don't be so sure that you're not the fool being played.

— Unknown
Ambition: To be doing anything except walking around Boston Common asking my former classmates if they could spare any change!

Jennifer M. Nunes

If you think you are beaten, you are.

If you dare not, you don't.

If you'd like to win, but think you can't,

It's almost a cinch you won't.

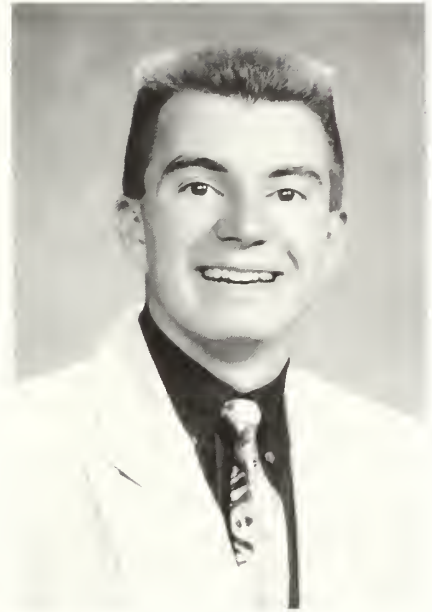

If you think you'll lose, you're lost;

For out in the world we find, Success begins with a fellow's will,

It's all in the state of mind.

— Unknown

Ambition: My goal in life is to become a successful lawyer, have the house of my dreams, and the car of my dreams with the man of my dreams. — Thanks Ricky and Mom for everything.

John M. Nunes

Winning and losing isn't everything . . . Just winning alone!

— Unknown

Ambition: To be successful at whatever I do.

Patrick S. O'Connor

As a dreamer who dreams and a ravelin' man I have chalked up many a mile, read dozens of books about heroes and crooks, I guess I learned both of their styles. And always one step head of the jailer!

— Jimmy Buffet

Ambition: To sail to Margaritaville with the Swedish Bini Team.

Learn from your errors — don't dwell in the past. Never withdraw from a world that is vast.

— Bruce B. Wilmer

Ambition: To decide on a career and become successful in all that I hope to accomplish.

Meaghan B. O'Keefe

I used to think freedom meant doing whatever you want. It means knowing who you are, what you are supposed to be doing on this earth and then simply doing it.

— Natalie Goldberg

Ambition: To have a career with opportunity to grow.

Erin M. O'Leary
 Afoot and lighthearted I take to the open road,
 Healthy, free, the world before
 me,
 The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.

— Walt Whitman
Ambition: To achieve all my goals.

Jeffrey L. O'Neill
 All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

— Jack Nicholson

Thomas J. O'Neill
 Whether you think you can or you think you can't, either way you're right.

— Henry Ford
Ambition: To come out on top of the heap.

Jennifer E. Opolski
 If you want to live on your own terms/ You have to be ready to crash and burn.

— Motley Cru
Ambition: To sail off into the sunset.

Sondra N. Pachucki
 There are many people that we meet in our lives, but only a very few will make a lasting impression. It is these people that we will think of often and who will always remain important to us as true friends.

— Unknown
Ambition: To repay my family and friends for all the times that they were there for me when I needed them the most. Thanks
 Mom, Skip, Jay, Jon, Suzanne,
 Gina, Lesley, Lauren and Dave.

Francine M. Palazzolo
 There is a special light that shines ahead of all of us when we show how much we care about other people. When we show our kindness, we learn about ourselves as well as the warmth we have to offer to others. That is why we should try to see with all the love in our hearts, not blindly with our eyes.

— Unknown
Ambition: To be successful and live my life full of happiness and hope.

Amy E. Palmer

Life moves fast.
If you don't slow down to take a look around once in a while,
you might miss it!

— Ferris Bueller

Ambition: To be as good a person as my father and to dive for the Olympics.

Lawrence J. Patten

When your a rookie, you own, the new guy, my advice to just go out and do it. It's the ie time you will be judged on e basis of what you do, rather an who you are.

— Lawrence Taylor

Ambition: To be successful and ar in my own biker movie.

Greg M. Pedi

It's the sport of kings, better than diamond rings, Football.

— "Wildcats"

I delight in not knowing.
That's one of the greatest things about life — it's wonderful surprises.

— Marlo Thomas

Ambition: To make it on my own.

Lauren J. Pifalo

They say I'm crazy, I really don't care, that's my prerogative.
They say I'm nasty, but I don't give a damn . . . that's my prerogative. Some ask me questions why am I so real, but they don't understand me. I really don't know the deal . . . I can do what I wanna do.

— Bobby Brown

Ambition: In 10 years I'd like to still be hanging out at Dave Spoffard's with Irene and Sondra.

If you are alone does it not only mean you will be together again.
If you are lacking is it not only because abundance is the only way.
If you are seeking is it not only because fulfillment is promised.
Do not lose heart. Life is good, surely your day is coming.

— Unknown
Ambition: To be as successful as I possibly can.

Discovering the undiscovered,
I travel far and wide,
Over the hills and across the countryside,
Higher and higher my wings
will take me,
Until that day, the true essence of life
Shall await me.
For one day, a star shall guide
the way,
Create a glittering path so magically bright,
So that I may discover the purest of truth and light.

From top: Passing inspection: Amy Carpenter studies Lawrence Patten's pumpkin. Artists show their masterpieces: Samantha Catanzano, Christen Cushing, Julie Doyle, Sondra Pachnecki and Suzanne Robitaille show off their winning pumpkins.

Clockwise: The gang's all here: Seniors display their fine creations. Pair of perfectionists: Holly Rotondi and Samantha Catanzano make precise measurements before carving their pumpkins. Look what I have: Tasney Mazzarino and her little sister discover all parts of a pumpkin. Open Wide! Mike Tomas and James Curran take a bite out of their hard work.

Fenwick Brings Magic to Charlie

The monotonous bus ride is finally over, and the travellers sit on the edge of their seats, awaiting an eagerly-anticipated Fenwick tradition. The donors have waited until their senior year of high school for this experience, and have listened as alumni fondly recall memories of the event. And the recipients wait every year for the time when "the Fenwick kids and Santa come to town."

In a year which included Operation Desert Storm, able-bodied young men and women became involved in a much less violent affair — Operation Charlie. Our excursionists proceeded into unknown territory with one mission: to bring a little love, friendship, and Christmas cheer to some little people who often don't receive enough. Each year, a select group of seniors and several teachers travel to Rochester, New Hampshire to the St. Charles Orphanage, from which Operation Charlie's name is derived.

After a brief tour of the premises, given by the Mother Superior, the Fenwick clan lingers for a while, until exuberant young faces fill the room as the children arrive home from school. It doesn't take long for the little kids to mingle with the big kids, and soon the room is filled with activities: storytelling, Matchbox car races (or smash-ups) and just plain socializing. The action was then taken outside, where some calmly played on the swings while others implored the youngsters to assist them in a snowball fight. Only their growling stomachs prompted the company to stop the fun (briefly) to get a bite to eat.

Everyone quickly consumed the repast of soda, cold cuts, and chips, not wanting a single moment of their short time together to go to waste. Momentarily, the hubbub ceased as an important figure made his appearance — jolly old Santa Claus (It was really Jim Curran, who put on a few pounds for the role.) He was followed by his dedicated elf, Samantha Catanzano, and together they helped put a smile on each face, with the presents the other seniors had purchased.

After helping the children assemble their new belongings, the seniors finally departed. They shook hands and hugged the cherubs they had known for only a few hours, that had touched them in more ways than the seniors could ever know.

Elf magic: Samantha Catanzano puts a smile on a little boy's face. Have you hugged someone today? Cara Bertelli and Laura find comfort in a friendly embrace.

Clockwise: The social circle: Steve Ialuna, Lionel, Sean Gallagher, James Curran, and Sean Gagnon appear to be having a stimulating conversation. "All I Want for Christmas is my Two Front Teeth," says Evelyn to her playmate Patrick. A visit to Never-Never Land: Kate Draper reads an awe-inspiring tale to her friend Jessica. "There's enough of me to go around," says Tom O'Neill to his new-found friends.

Extraordinary Entrees

Jason Melsaac

The band known as "Impact" is not at the top of the record charts . . . yet!

Jason Melsaac and four of his childhood friends created "Impact" five years ago, practicing fifteen hours a week hoping to get that ever elusive break.

Jay has been tickling the electric keyboard for the past nine years and has played the drums for four years. He currently uses both instruments to play a combination of the group's own music and pieces from the "Grateful Dead," "Led Zeppelin," "Yes," and "Rush".

Jay's band has performed at the local club "Bleachers," as well as various parties. Impact also performed at St. John's Prep in a benefit for the environment.

The band members hope to stay together during college and plan to start recording in a studio, looking for more lucrative gigs at various clubs throughout the North Shore and Boston area.

Jay hopes the group will stay together long enough to make a major "Impact" in the music industry.

Brian Mahoney

"Flying the Friendly Skies" is what Brian Mahoney enjoys most. At the age of seventeen, Brian has his private pilot's license and is a member of the Civil Air Patrol.

For two years Brian became a regular at the Beverly Airport, participating in the sixty-five hours of flight training and fifteen hours of classroom training necessary for a private pilot's license. In addition to having his pilot's license, Brian has been a member of the Civil Air Patrol for the past three years. He has established himself as a sergeant and an Aerospace Education Officer, which requires him to teach aeronautical classes to his fellow cadets.

Brian's ultimate goal is to one day fly fighter jets for the United States Air Force. With the steps he has taken so far, it appears as though Brian will achieve his dream of flying through the sky at speeds most can only imagine.

Jason Gray

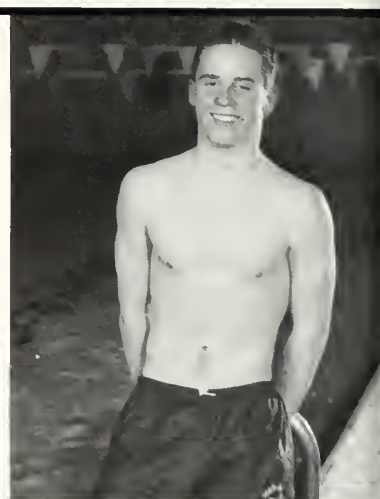

Future Olympic hopeful, Jason Gray has been swimming since the young age of five. Jay began swimming at the Lynn Y.M.C.A., then at the Danvers Y.M.C.A. Presently, Jay swims for the Cape Ann Y.M.C.A. in Gloucester under the coaching of Dan Warner.

His commitment to swimming has provided Jay with many distinct honors and awards. He remembers his first significant win in his swimming career was when he became New England's thirteen and fourteen-year-old age group champion in the 50 meter freestyle and 100 meter backstroke at age fourteen. He has also established himself as a National Y.M.C.A. record holder in the 15 meter backstroke.

Jay's dream of swimming in the 1996 Olympics is becoming a reality. This past summer Jay participated in the Junior Olympics in Alabama, a distinct honor in which future Olympic hopefuls are invited to compete against the best. He also took part in the a Y.M.C.A Nationals in Tennessee, where he received two second-place awards and a fourth-place in various backstroke events. In addition, this past October, Jay attended an Olympic training camp in Colorado.

Jay has proven himself to be among the finest high school swimmers in the nation, and hopes to prove it to the world in Olympic Competition.

Melissa Murray

From the East Coast to the West Coast, Melissa Murray has competed with the best and shared the spotlight.

Modeling for four years has led Melissa to compete for and win the titles of North Shore's Perfect Teen, America's Perfect Teen Photogenic, and Miss American Coed Photogenic.

Traveling to Hawaii and Myrtle Beach for the National Pageants has enabled Melissa to meet girls from all over the country.

Melissa's experience in modeling has also given her the chance to work with charity groups such as: Dorchester Youth Collaborative, Kiss Day at Whalem Park and state parades . . . Melissa feels that if she continues modeling it will not only fulfill her dreams but give her the satisfaction of helping others.

Jason Windsor

The martial arts have had a profound effect on Jason Windsor, a student of Karate for the past five-and-a-half years. Jay attends Karate classes every week at Nancy Gavenda's Karate Academy. Under the instruction of Nancy, Jason has obtained his first degree black belt also known as "shodan."

Jason began his instruction in young adult classes, then graduated to an adult section where he received his black belt. Jason occasionally instructs an introductory Karate course, and hopes to expand his study of the martial arts.

— Andrea Szekely

Samantha Catanzano

Samantha Catanzano has been visibly active in the Fenwick community; in addition, she has also devoted many hours to gymnastics since the age of ten. Three times each week, Samantha practices at the Beverly Y.M.C.A. and once per week she instructs a pre-teen gymnastics class. Furthermore, Sam is a member of the Beverly Wild Cats, which has obtained three league titles, one state title, and has qualified for the nationals.

Her personal achievements include receiving fourth place in a state meet, and second place in the Y.M.C.A. league. Although Sam admits she is too old to train for the Olympics, her days of hand springs and back walkovers will never end.

— Tara Camarda

Tasney Mazzarino

Some know her as a member of the Bishop Fenwick Band; however, Tasney Mazzarino has an impressive history of playing the violin, which goes far beyond the classroom.

It all started in the fifth grade when a friend influenced her to give the violin a try. While she was in junior high, she was a member of the Youth Symphony by the Sea, and also took part in the Junior Districts. Upon entering high school, she became the first freshman nominated for All-States competition.

Tasney is a member of the Boston University-sponsored Greater Boston Youth Symphony, the New England Conservatory-sponsored Youth Symphony, Youth Philharmonic, and the Conservatory Extension for High School Students.

An exciting episode of her career was the Youth Symphony's trip to Europe during the summer of 1991. The trip included stops in France, Germany, Austria and Switzerland. Five concerts were performed, one of which was attended by the U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland.

Tasney has also taken part in seven musical productions as a member of the pit orchestra for Marblehead Little Theater, Lynnfield Spotlights, and of course, Bishop Fenwick. In addition, she has played the piano for ten years and currently plays the clarinet, trumpet and tenor saxophone for the school band, as well as the violin.

Tasney's musical talents are sure to take her far beyond the auditorium of Bishop Fenwick.

Bethany Kiricoples

Sheila Figurido

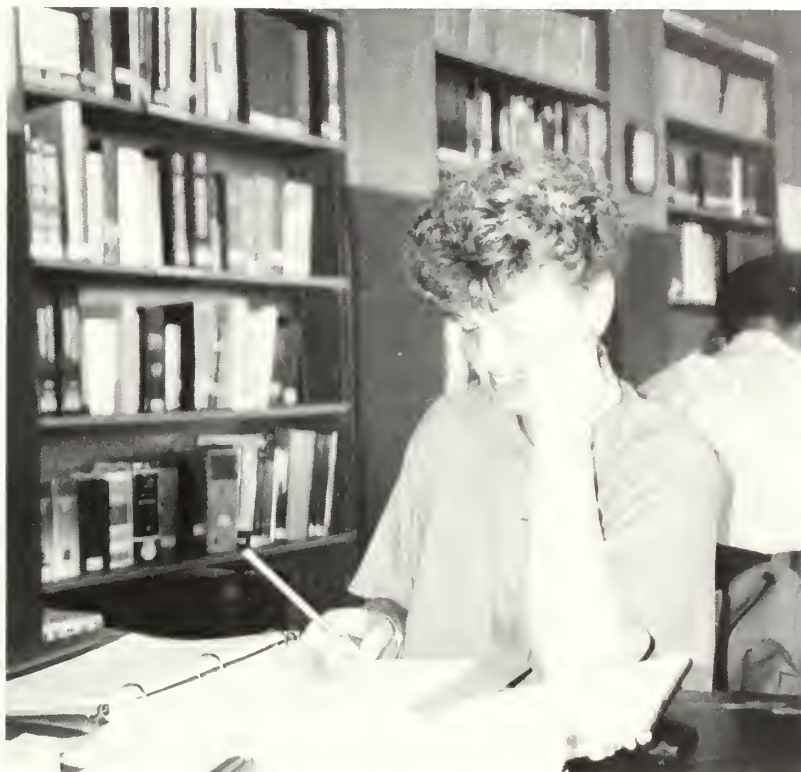

Sheila Figurido, who has been ice skating since age seven, represents the unspoken athlete whose work and dedication often goes unnoticed. Under the coaching of Martha Hazel, Sheila has devoted many hours to skating. She is a member of the North Shore Skating Club in Saugus and has competed in many competitions in which she has received over thirty-nine medals and ribbons. This year Sheila is skating in the Ice-Spectacular show in which she will perform a solo routine. Recently, she has been selected to skate in the Ice Capades, a distinct accomplishment for her skating career. Although we can't be sure if Sheila will be an Olympic medalist in the near future, we can be positive that she will be heating up rinks around the area with her dazzling routines.

Appetizers

In their infinite wisdom, the award-winning service staff at The Shield did not rest on their laurels. They realized the fact that their delectable entrees were celebrated throughout the land, but another treat was also needed to further enhance the already excellent reputation of the establishment. At the request of their benevolent proprietor, the chefs set forth with a vengeance to develop yet another culinary classic. After much deliberation in closed kitchen quarters, the chefs emerged looking haggard. They had decided to create three extraordinary yet distinctive types of appetizers for their patrons. Although not a meal in themselves, these creations would serve as a sign of even better food to come and complement the entrees in such a way as to keep patrons coming back for more.

The chefs took great care not to hurry the cooking process since they firmly believed in the adage "Good things come to those who wait." Throughout the baking of the appetizers, the chefs kept a close eye on the ovens to see that their dishes were developing properly. Occasionally the proprietor even appeared in the realm of the chefs to sample the appetizers in order to appreciate the more intangible qualities that sight alone was unable to perceive.

Although their recipes were extolled throughout the region, the service staff was sad to see the appetizers grow in popularity. It seemed almost like their creations were gone before they knew it. However, this disappearance was not an illusion, it was reality . . .

The Service Staff

As they sat hunched over their books, searching for the key procedures and ingredients in each recipe, their eyes strained from the burden of reading for such a long period of time. And so the overworked chefs began yet another day, absorbed in their continual task of preparing for the patrons. However, in their work, the staff took great pride in the knowledge that they were able to serve with such wisdom and efficiency in the name of the beloved Shield.

The great chefs spent hours upon hours thinking about how they could improve their creations, whether it was by adding an extra step in a recipe, by removing an unnecessary ingredient, or by cooking an entree for a longer period of time. It was through these constant improvements that The Shield was able to attain its stellar reputation and keep that reputation for the incredibly long period of thirty years. The Shield was indebted to the chefs for their tireless work and amazing intelligence that was responsible for the delicious feasts produced each and every day.

Thankfully, the patrons realized the efforts of the staff, from the proprietor to the clean-up crew, and rewarded them all with the supreme gift. This gift was the numerous smiles and congratulations given to the staff after the Great Meal. The patrons then left The Shield fulfilled with the knowledge that there were still many people in the world, or at least in the establishment at Ninety-Nine Margin Street, who cared.

Providing the Leadership

How much do we actually know about our principal and vice-principal? There are some aspects about them that might surprise you.

Mr. Ralph LeDuc started at this school in March of 1962 as a football and indoor/outdoor track coach. Since 1962, Mr. LeDuc has seen many changes at Fenwick. In September of 1964, Mr. LeDuc became a teacher. The subjects Mr. LeDuc has taught are social studies, math, religion, and physical education.

One change Mr. LeDuc has noticed is in girls' basketball. The girls used to wear skirts and had run after bouncing the ball twice during the game. Now, the girls' games are much more fast-paced.

Next, in the seventies, the biggest change occurred. Mr. LeDuc became assistant principal in 1970. Uniforms were a thing of the past starting in 1970. Also, the sisters were no longer required to wear their habits. Eventually, the freedom of no uniforms was lost when the Fenwick sweater was added to the dress code in September 1987. Mr. LeDuc feels that the sweaters distinguish us from other schools, and he will continue to advocate their use unless parents and students want full uniforms back. Mr. LeDuc also thinks that a full uniform would be a step backward.

Mr. LeDuc became principal in 1974, the year most of the present seniors were born. He set a precedent as the first lay principal in the diocese. Some of his responsibilities include the finances and security of the school, as well as improvements to the school. Mr. LeDuc feels that Fenwick is a safe, comfortable environment for its students. The Catholic background of the school is an added aspect for Fenwick. Also, Mr. LeDuc feels that the faculty plays an active role in the lives of the students.

Sr. Geraldine Burns, SND
Vice-Principal

Although Sister Geraldine Burns, SND, now serves as Vice-Principal of Bishop Fenwick, she has not always held that post.

Sr. Geraldine began at Fenwick in 1974 as a math teacher. She rose to Math Department Head before assuming vice-principal duties in 1983. As vice-principal, Sr. Geraldine is in charge of discipline, report cards, class scheduling and the bookstore.

During her years at Fenwick, Sr. Geraldine has seen many changes, but she still believes the students are the best assets of the school. She also feels that at Fenwick the students have the advantage of having teachers who are always there for them. One of the most recent additions to Fenwick, the electronic message board in the cafeteria, has caught Sr. Geraldine's eye. She feels the board is more effective than daily announcements because the board allows students to be responsible for their activities.

Plotting the Course

The Guidance Department is one of the most important factors at Bishop Fenwick. The Guidance staff includes Mr. Carl Sacco (freshmen), Sr. Brigid Ann (sophomores), Mrs. Constance Skahan (juniors) and Mr. John Jaworski (seniors). In addition to these counselors, Mrs. Pauline LaRoche, Mrs. Mary O'Hare, and Sr. Marie Emmanuel serve as the support staff, handling the many details in schedules, appointments, and other tasks. These professionals are trained to handle problems both at school and at home. They always try to do their best to help all students, and usually succeed. In addition to counseling, Guidance handles course selection, college placement and career opportunities.

The head of the Guidance department is Sr. Margaret Melville, who is in charge of college placement and testing programs like the DATs and PSATs. The entire staff prides itself on being available whenever students need help.

Preaching the Good News

Writing an article on religious education poses a difficult problem for the writer. While other classes are easily defined and categorized, religion is one of the most challenging departments to cover properly. Religion means a different thing to each person at Fenwick; no two people would give the same answer to the question "What does religion mean to you?" Fenwick's Religion Department, headed by Sr. Joan Flynn, SC, attempts to help each student find his or her own answer to this oftentimes puzzling question.

The search for truth begins freshman year, with a two-part program. First, the students explore the concepts of family and human sexuality in Identity and Values. The rest of the year is devoted to the study of the Hebrew Scriptures, otherwise known as the Old Testament.

In the sophomore year of study, all students take Church History. This class explores the events, people and places that have made the Church what it is today. The remainder of tenth grade is used to look at the Christian Scriptures, or the New Testament. This unit covers the life of Jesus as presented in the four Gospels. A variety of projects, including murals and oral presentations, is used to depict the message and deeds of Jesus.

Juniors take one semester each of Catholic Morality and Social Justice. The former aids students in developing a system of morals and values. The goals and principles of Christianity are kept in mind during this process. Social Justice ties together ninth and tenth grade courses and the themes of Catholic Morality in a look at the concept of justice. The ways in which God's call to justice is expressed in the Scriptures and examined, as well as how the principles of justice can be acted on in today's society. Juniors are asked to correct injustice in their own lives.

Senior year brings with it a choice of religion electives. Christian Lifestyles, however, is a requirement. This semester course takes a good look at the foundations of personality and the related ideas of marriage and commitment. The decision to follow a single, married, or religious life is also explored. The other senior electives are Apostolic Ministry, Proclaiming the Good News and Theology of Death. Apostolic Ministry and Proclaiming the Good News provide seniors with a chance to minister to other in their hometowns and communities. Apostolic Ministry volunteers work several hours each week at places such as Haven From Hunger. Proclaiming the Good News offers students the unique opportunity to teach Catholic education classes. Theology of Death is a semester class that attempts to shed some light on the final mystery of death and dying.

Religion is a highly subjective topic, and these courses have been created with the intention of helping students decide the proper place of the spiritual dimension in their lives.

Literary Journeys

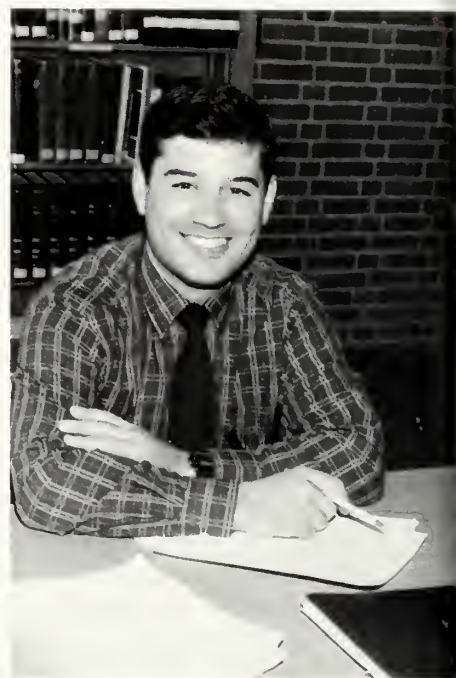

Sit back and relax. Are you comfortable? Good, for you are about to embark on a journey through time. You will soar beyond the scope of reality, to a place where your imagination will have the freedom to take flight. You will encounter mythical creatures, famous men and women, and interesting beings not yet known to you. Fly to the stars on the back of a griffin, or journey to the time of the French Revolution; rise up with the masses and wreak bitter revenge on the aristocracy. Whatever you wish is at your command. What enables you to do all this, you may ask? Your English class, along with a little imagination.

In English, we learn not only the proper way of speaking and writing, but also how to read and interpret the works of literature that are assigned to us. Our teachers are the tour guides on our excursions through literature. They give us the vision to see the beauty of the images that words create. Of course, between these wondrous journeys, we work on improving other skills, as well. The teachers in the English Department put great emphasis on expanding the vocabulary of their students.

The English Department's two department heads are Mr. Robert Sousa and Mr. Stephen Sutera. This year, some of the teachers in the department have joined together to compile a book that will guide students in the completion of research papers. Mr. Sousa says that he and Mr. Sutera have taken a "team approach" to chairing the department this year. So, sit back and relax; you have some of the best tour guides to lead you through the exciting world of literature. Enjoy the trip.

World Awareness

The Social Studies Department, headed by Mr. Edward Kawczynski, is a vital part of every student's academic career at Fenwick. Each student is required to participate in two years of history classes. These courses offer the student an opportunity to learn about past cultures and how our present government works. There is a wide variety of topics that students can learn about during their four years at Fenwick.

Freshmen are given the opportunity to take European Culture. This course discusses many topics, such as the secrets of Egyptian mummification and the European royal family tree. Projects and activities round out the year.

Asian-African is the class in which the sophomores may enroll. Facts about Africa, India, Japan, China, and Southeast Asia are covered in every class. It is important for the students to be exposed to different cultures and lifestyles, and these classes provide the perfect opportunity.

All juniors are required to participate in United States History. The class teaches students about the discovery of America up until modern times. This course helps students gain awareness of their heritage and of all that it has taken to get our country to where it is today.

Senior year, students are given different options for course topics. The choices are Government and World Issues, Psychology, Sociology, and Law Studies. Each class helps the students to learn about past mistakes in order to ensure that they do not happen again. When a student graduates from Fenwick, he or she has a solid background in history, which helps him or her to be aware of the events, people, and places in the world.

Speaking In Tongues

In this era of unprecedented cooperation between nations, knowledge of a foreign language takes on new importance. Fenwick's Language Department, chaired by Miss Diane Colozzi, prepares students for their role in this "New World Order." With six teachers exclusive to the department and one part-time teacher, instruction in other tongues is handled by expressly-qualified professionals.

French and Spanish are taught on all four grade levels. Latin is only taught at the honors level, while French and Spanish are taught at both honors and level two. Additionally, Spanish is conducted at level one.

All Fenwick students are required to take two years of foreign language. Many opt to extend that period to gain further proficiency, or even take two languages at the same time. This can cause a bit of confusion, however, especially when one arrives in French class and begins to speak fluent Spanish. If this happens to you someday, don't worry; many of the teachers in the department know one or two other languages besides their primary specialty (and English, of course). There's a good chance that your teacher will understand you.

A foreign language at Fenwick is not all vocab drills and boring exercises, either; it is an interactive process. Culture days featuring the foods of France, Mexico, and Spain are often held. Foreign films such as the French movie "Jean de Florette" are shown as an end-of-the-year treat. Skits, interviews, dialogues, and stories involve the entire class in activities that can be fun or painful, depending on how well you've studied your part. Everyone gets into the action; no one sits out on any project.

In short, Fenwick prepares students well for foreign study later in life or just for the experience of learning how to say it someone else's way.

"One half the base times the height equals the area of a triangle, right?"

" $Y = mx + b$, right?"

"Please tell me I'm right or else I'll flunk!"

These frantic exclamations and others can be heard from anxious students just before the next (dare we say the M-word?) math quiz or test. The Math Department, headed by Mrs. Marianne Russo, offers classes from Algebra 1 to AP Calculus to suit every level of ability and every interest.

Math causes a wide range of emotions in a single class period. Confusion, understanding, joy, relief, and worry are all encompassed in a mere forty-four minutes.

For those of us who don't see the light at the end of the tunnel after those exhilarating/agonizing (pick one) minutes, Fenwick students can seek the wisdom of the dedicated staff for further enlightenment in the mysteries of mathematics. These intelligent souls send us home believing that we can solve the problems and get them right.

The next day in class, the answers are indeed correct, and a moment of thanksgiving is felt. From there, we proceed to run the gauntlet of feelings, but we leave with a triumphant sense of knowledge gained and challenges mastered.

Eco-Crusaders

Amidst the puzzling periodic tables and endless combinations of DNA molecules, there lies a science that is built around common sense, the will to improve, and due respect for the natural world.

Ecology, one of the most popular electives available at Fenwick, has captured the interests of juniors and seniors who wish to better understand how to preserve our fragile environment. This ironically comes at times when they feel too useless to make any difference in such a large world. The course, which was started five years ago, is taught by Mrs. Frances Ward as a full-year elective.

Students participating in Ecology discuss topics ranging from simple ecosystems and agricultural planning to more fundamental issues such as energy conservation, acid rain, and the greenhouse effect. The students are required to complete "labs" which are quite different from the experiments that involve lab goggles and test tubes that foam at the rim. Instead, groups of students may set up imaginary towns and collaborate on ideas to provide the town with the most effective energy conservation plan.

As our society today calls for more extensive awareness to ecological affairs, Ecology encourages students to absorb information from their classroom discussions and apply them to their everyday lifestyles as teenagers, thus allowing them to take an active part in their surroundings. For instance, most seniors can now vote for more laws that they feel would best promote the safety of the environment. They can also take part in recycling programs in their hometowns or at school. In fact, Fenwick's newly-established recycling program has enabled thousands of aluminum cans and paper products to be saved from the refuse pile. Furthermore, in the last two years, many Ecology students have gone on to college and majored in Environmental Science.

A tip for those students who shy away from science-related subjects: reconsider. Ecology will help students realize that preserving the environment is everyone's responsibility, and, as Mrs. Ward adds, "it is our Christian obligation to protect the Earth." This course will guide all types of individuals into growing as a united generation with a common cause: to protect our earth and its inhabitants.

Artistic Endeavors

In addition to its excellent academics, Bishop Fenwick has a talented and award-winning Fine Arts Department. The students' abilities in whatever art or music class they take are sharpened and refined, allowing them to create true works of art; maybe not Picasso or Mozart, but close. Mrs. Brenda Hallinan is the current Head of the Fine Arts Department.

Students have a wide variety of choices in the field of art. Freshmen can take either Introduction to Art or, for those more ambitious, the more in-depth Drawing and Painting. For art-inclined sophomores, juniors, and seniors, there's Composition and Design. Along with this class, juniors can choose from Studio Art, Advanced Art, General Art, or Clay and Sculpture. Seniors have unlimited freedom to take any of these classes, except the freshman courses. In previous years, people who have excelled in these classes have entered the Boston Globe Art Contest, as well as the Fenwick art fair held in the spring along with the Spring Concert.

Fenwick also has an exceptional music program. For freshmen, Chorus, Concert Choir, instrument instruction and Band are offered. While Chorus and instrument instruction are open to anyone, Concert Choir and Band require an audition. Sophomores can pursue musical education in Chorale, Band, and Concert Choir. Juniors and seniors can take any of the sophomore classes along with Music Theory and Music Literature, both one-semester electives. For all students enrolled in Chorus, Chorale, Concert Choir, and Band, there is a performance requirement of two concerts per year — the Christmas Concert and the previously mentioned Spring Concert.

Whether your interests lie in art or music, remember: You can find some of the best teachers and courses around right here at Fenwick.

Reaching Out

The goal of Campus Ministry is to reach out to all aspects of life at Fenwick. The Campus Ministry team consists of Ms. Elizabeth Sullivan, Director, Sr. Lisette Michaud, and Fr. James Nyhan. Together, they work to coordinate programs for the students and faculty, including the senior and junior retreats, days of recollection, and the Freshman-Senior Buddy Day. Campus Ministry also plans the masses that take place at school.

Campus Ministry organizes programs such as Adopt-A-Child, the Oxfam Fast, and the canned food drive, which gives students a chance to reach out and give help to those who need it. Out of school, Campus Ministry makes it possible for students to volunteer their time to the public by organizing trips to Haven from Hunger and by offering to help out at local nursing homes.

According to Sr. Lisette, "Our office is a clearinghouse: we publicize the needs from the outside community and get the school's attention."

Just as importantly, the members of the Campus Ministry staff stress that the office is a place where any student can go just to talk, if they have a problem or just feel that they need to talk about something.

Pumping Up

"A mind is a terrible thing to waste." Indeed it is. But what about good health and physical strength? "Man (and woman) cannot live by school work alone," a fact that we, as hardworking students, probably agree with. That's why Physical Education and Health classes are important.

Mrs. Ellen Stevens and Mr. Mark Guido are the two teachers of the Phys. Ed. Department. Every student is required to take Phys. Ed. and Health for both their freshman and sophomore years. Freshmen must attend gym class two days a week for the entire year, while sophomores attend classes four days a week for one semester. Through participation in various sports, students learn the importance of teamwork. Along with the regular curriculum of sports and games, the President's Physical Fitness Test is administered to all freshmen. In Health, freshmen learn how to perform CPR in order to obtain Red Cross certification, the ill effects of smoking and alcohol abuse, and the various hygienic issues which young adults must deal with.

The sophomore curriculum for Phys. Ed. includes Project Adventure. Project Adventure helps students to gain self confidence and to acquire leadership and problem solving skills, while having a great time. In Health, sophomores learn about drugs and the teenager, and review CPR techniques for recertification.

Without good health and the ability to work well in a team, it is very difficult to excel in this world. And, as we are all fully aware of, all work and no play can make anyone a dull person. With Physical Education and Health, there isn't much chance of that happening to any Fenwick student.

Scholarly Service

Although not one of the most publicized, nevertheless one of the most respected organizations at Bishop Fenwick, the National Honor Society is an integral part of the school. Its members not only deserve merit for their extraordinary proficiency in the areas of coffee-serving and ushering, but also for their scholastic achievements and their involvement in numerous extra-curricular activities. Most people at Fenwick come into first contact with NHS members at the quarterly parent-teacher conferences, where the school's top achievers can be seen at their respective stations, one on each floor, providing semi-comatose teachers with a much needed caffeine fix after an abnormally long, fourteen hour day at the office. Spurred on by the unending guidance of their faithful leader, Sr. Judith Nee, NHS members always are there when duty calls to serve the school in any way possible.

However, the service of the National Honor Society is embedded much more deeply than in the superficial area of "catering." The main thrust of the organization is directed towards fellow students in the way of tutoring. NHS members tutor students who need some extra help in any subject, on what is usually a weekly basis. This tutoring, helpful to so many, simply reinforces The Fenwick Chapter's beliefs in the main tenets of the National Honor Society: scholarship, leadership, character and service. Even more importantly, the service shows the rest of the school community that NHS members do not ever choose to sit on their laurels, but, rather made a genuine effort to share their academic talents with the rest of the "Fenwick family."

Keys to Learning

Though many of you might not be aware of it, at the end of the hall on the third floor are the golden gates of knowledge. For beyond these two doors, even though they are made of wood, not gold, are the tools that every student needs to help them in their efforts to achieve good grades. What is the name of this haven from ignorance, you ask? It is the O'Rourke Library. Fenwick's library was dedicated in May of 1981 to Sisters Madeleine and Julianne O'Rourke, SND, who served as the librarians for the first twenty years of the school's existence.

The current head librarian is Brother Frederiek Codair, otherwise known to all of us as Brother Fred. Sister Nancy O'Reilly is his assistant librarian. Both Br. Fred and Sr. Nancy have credentials that many other school librarians cannot boast of — Master's degrees in Library Science. Mrs. Gina Jaworski is the library secretary.

Some of the many "tools" that the library offers students are a new computer, purchased with funds raised by the last two graduating classes. A CD-ROM disk drive, which is capable of searching for different types of information on many different topics, including social and scientific issues, and an Electronic Encyclopedia were also acquired with the money. The computer is located in the periodical room. Students may use the library and its many facilities between the hours of 7:45 am and 3:15 pm.

So, why travel far to do research when all you need is in your own backyard?

International Endeavors

What began as just another Fenwick school trip became a wondrous adventure across the Atlantic to Europe. During ten days in London and Paris, the lives of thirty Fenwick students and a few brave chaperons, led by Mr. Kawczynski, became intertwined with those of a Pittsburg prep school group. New friendships were made and special memories produced.

The trip took place over Christmas break, and included stops at Notre Dame, Speaker's Corner, Versailles, and the original Hard Rock Café. Rides on le métro in Paris and the Tube in London were also popular. A ferry carried the voyagers across the English Channel from London to Paris just in time for New Year's Eve in the "city of lights."

Although many students experienced culture shock, monetary confusion and sickness, those factors didn't stop anyone from having a good time. As the students left Paris, they recalled all the good times they enjoyed. It had been a special trip, a memory to cherish.

Side Orders

So The Shield became renowned for its blending of various tastes with superior service and at the requests of the establishment's patrons, began to enter various culinary competitions. The staff made sure that these competitions were not only to take place in the surrounding area, but also throughout the world. Although the thought of testing the culinary proficiency of the tiny Shield against that of the restaurant giants from around the globe at first seemed daunting to the great chefs, they soon grew accustomed to traveling in those lofty circles.

At these competitions, there were many different cooking divisions. These divisions ranged in levels from apprentice to master chef, and the only one that The Shield ever competed in was the latter because of its great level of difficulty. In this division, the chefs had to do their best, combining cooking skill with amazing creativity. Only then did they know that even if another restaurant performed better, they gave it all of their efforts.

The Shield consistently proved themselves worthy of all their praises, placing near the top of all competitions. However, the great chefs astutely perceived a greater reward. They realized that glory is not placing first, second, or even third, but rather, it is the satisfaction of knowing that they gave their best. With this new realization, the chefs went on with their work with a new wonderful fervor.

Slow Start, Strong Finish

The 1991 Bishop Fenwick football team ended its season on a high note, winning its last three games. Although victory was often just out of the Crusaders' grasp, they finished with a 4-6 record under the leadership of Head Coach Gary Davis and assistants Paul Lyman, Doug Bean, Jim Nally, Al Costabile, Ed Henry and senior Eric Zawacki. An air of tenacity and a never-say-die attitude were prevalent, even in the lowest moments. Tri-captains L.J. Patten, Mike Varoudakis and Tony Bettencourt performed well throughout the season, along with providing unending leadership for the underclassmen. Other seniors leading the way were: Tom Day, Tom O'Neill, Mark Swiniarski, Steve Ialuna, Pat Downey, George Hart, Mike Tomas, Pat O'Connor, Bill Nolan, Mark Cormier and Greg Pedi.

The team possessed a strong offensive line led by the seniors, with the juniors and sophomores filling important roles in other key positions.

At the Fenwick Football Banquet, Bettencourt, Downey, Swiniarski and David Kiricoples were announced Catholic Central League All-Stars. Other awards presented were: Bettencourt (Best Offensive Player); Downey (Best Defensive Player); Ialuna and Nolan (Best Special Teams Players); Swiniarski and Cormier (Coach's Awards); Patten (Spirit Award) and O'Connor (Most Improved Defensive Player).

Next year's team looks to build from the foundation of underclassmen formed from this season. Hopefully, the 1992 squad can begin where the 1991 team left off.

Three Cheers for Fenwick!

They're back! They're better! They're the Fenwick football cheerleaders!

The squad finished yet another successful competing season with two wins, a pair of seconds, and a third-place finish. The team also received an invitation to return to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina for the Can-Am Championship.

Co-captains Erin Morrison and Dena Caporale were among the ten seniors who led the squad. Other seniors included Samantha Catanzano, Katelyn Draper, Lisa Silva, Deborah Burba, Anna LoPresti, Crystale Dion, Karen Jodoin and Denise Deon.

Like most sports, victory and a winning season do not come without hard work, discipline, pain and sacrifice. The squad spent long, grueling hours in the gym practicing. Coaches Mrs. Dzierzak and Miss Firicano stressed repetition and perfection. In addition to competing, the team also enthusiastically supported the football team and promoted school spirit.

The squad possessed something many teams never find — a special bond and chemistry that keeps friends and teammates close, with a genuine concern for each other. Their personality and showmanship allowed Fenwick to stand out from other cheerleading squads.

Next year will be a rebuilding one for the squad, but the seniors leave behind an impressive record for the underclassmen to build upon.

On Top Again

The Bishop Fenwick field hockey team had a great season, finishing the season with a 13-4-2 record. The girls were undefeated in the Greater Boston League for the fourth year in a row, but lost in the first round of the state tournament in overtime to North Andover, 2-1. The team was led by the senior tri-captains Stacey Garland, Amanda Larrabee, and Kim Ward. Also contributing to the leadership were seniors Cheryl Budaj, Rebecca Martineau, Kendra McCarthy, Kate O'Keefe, Meaghan O'Keefe, and Kimberly Serino. Serino also had a terrific season in her third year as starting goalie.

Because of their undefeated league standing, the Crusaders competed against the All-star team of the GBL. Contributing to Fenwick's 3-0 victory were Fenwick All-stars Stacey Garland, Kerri Lyman, Leah Mastromatteo, and Amanda Larrabee. Larrabee was not only one of the All-stars but was also named the GBL MVP.

A major contributor to the team's success was Coach Ellen Stevens, who gave not only support but also guidance to the team throughout the season.

Winning Ways

The Bishop Fenwick Boy's Soccer team completed yet another successful season with a solid 11-4-3 record. For the fifth consecutive year, the boys continued play in the post season State Tournament, where they lost a well-played game to a strong North Andover team in the opening round.

The 1991 season was marked by an amazing eight shutouts, thanks to outstanding goal keeper Junior Dan Desmond. One of the shutouts, over arch-rival St. Mary's of Lynn, was the first victory Fenwick ever posted over the rival school. Coach John Kotch stated that the team's success "helped prove that Fenwick's soccer program is on the same level as any other school on the North Shore." Unfortunately, Coach Kotch will lose ten seniors to graduation this year. Tri-captains Sean Dailey, Sean Roberts, and Kevin Crowell, as well as key players Sean Andrews, Adam Wozniak, John Nunes, Michael Tibbetts, Shawn Gately and Jason Ellis will be greatly missed. The program will be counting on the returning underclassmen and their playing experience to step up and fill the vacant positions. With dedication and determination, the boys' team looks to continue it's winning ways in the future.

The 1991 girls soccer season was definitely one to remember. Their successful season was led by captains Pia Theophiles, Michelle Corriveau, Samantha Hallinan and Laura Carlson. Goal keeper, Christy Murphy, had an outstanding six shutouts. Junior Karla Roberts netted thirteen goals, while Laura Carlson acquired thirty points for the season. The Lady Crusaders went undefeated during the season, not losing until the first round of the state tournament. "It was a great season — the best — and it was the hardest loss I ever had," said Coach Cunha of the tourney loss. Although the team is losing some excellent talent the underclassmen will be back and ready for another successful season next year.

Once again, Coach Jack Farley managed to guide the Boys' Cross Country Team into a winning season and a second-place finish in the Catholic Central League. Jason Jonikas, who was co-captain along with Team MVP Daniel Walker, said, "Due to Mr. Farley's strenuous efforts, we were all team-oriented and contributed our best to the team."

Although the team did not top the Catholic Central League, it placed a strong second in the League Meet, while the Freshman-Sophomore team triumphed with the help of newcomers Stephen Lowe and Ted Zito, who both received Underclassman Awards at the team banquet. The Crusaders also produced three CCL All-Stars in Walker, Douglas Lowe, and Shane Rein.

Even though Walker and Jonikas will be lost to graduation, the core of the program will remain, with the rising talent of the underclassmen and the experience and leadership of the juniors paving the way for yet another stellar season.

Service with a Smile

The Bishop Fenwick girls Volleyball team had a fun season, although it was not a winning one. The Varsity team was led by ninth-year Coach Anthony Juliano and senior tri-captains Jennifer Butler, Sheila Bonfanti, and Jill Douglas. Other seniors leading the way for Fenwick were Cara Bertelli, Danielle Shuekra, Amy Lewis, Andrea Szekely, Jennifer Stoney, Lesley Kokoska, and Alyssa Poskus. The Junior-Varsity was coached by Coach Juliano's daughter, Lisa Juliano, and the Freshman squad was led by coach Donna Bansfield.

The 1991 season was characterized by a family atmosphere, team spirit and great enthusiasm. If the team was down, it got right back up. "Nice guys finish last" was an appropriate motto for the volleyball team because even though their record was not spectacular, the Lady Crusaders played with spirit day in and day out. Coach Juliano stressed that the Volleyball team was one of the best at Fenwick because of their hard work and positive attitude. He summed it up by saying "This is the best group of girls you would ever want to coach."

Young Guns

The 1991-92 season for the girls' basketball team was a successful one. Senior tri-captains Karin Bettencourt, Erin "E" Morrison, and Laura Carlson guided the team to a 17-4 record, losing to Cambridge in the first round of the state tournament. However, the girls captured the Catholic Central League championship, sharing the title with Archbishop Williams.

The Crusaders had a very young team this year with seven sophomores and one freshman. Sophomores Deidre Driscoll, Adrienne Fay, Colleen McGlynn, Lorin Slade, and Erin McCafferty were essential players and bring hope to the future of the Lady Crusaders. Juniors Karla Roberts and Jen Ryan also added a great deal to the game by rebounding and scoring points.

Overall, this season was a great success for all involved.

Shooting for the Stars

What more can be said about the 1991-1992 Bishop Fenwick Crusader boys' basketball team that hasn't been said already? Under the guidance of Coach Mike O'Brien, the Crusaders finished the regular season with an astonishing 17-3 record, and were runners-up in the Catholic Central League. The Crusaders became the only team since 1984 to make it to the North Sectional Finals before losing to East Boston (69-60). In the State Tournament, the Crusaders grabbed the second seed in the Division 2 North Section. Fenwick reached the North Sectional Finals with wins over Winchester (63-57), Melrose (75-65), and Belmont (76-69). The Jets of East Boston, however, were too tough for the Crusaders, who, with a win, would have advanced to the Eastern Sectional Finals at the Boston Garden.

Although most of the focus was on superstar Casey Arena, this team was a lot deeper than one man. With Arena, Brian Soucy, and Tom Raftery as this year's senior tri-captains and CCL all-stars, the team had a strong core, with Arena's average of 33 points per game, Soucy's baseline shooting and rebounding, and Raftery's relentless pursuit on the boards. Add seniors Billy Stansfield and Sean McConnell's perimeter shooting, and solid contributions from Pat Robinson, George Hart, and Greg Lowe, and this team had serious potential.

Much of this year's team success was attributed to the all-around play of Casey Arena. Whether it was rebounding, scoring, dishing out assists, or getting his teammates motivated, Casey was a total team player. This resident of Beverly was the recipient of the CCL MVP, the Gatorade player of the Year for Massachusetts, and was nominated for the McDonald's Classic, which shows off the talent of the best high-school basketball players in America. Casey ended his career as the all-time leading scorer on the North Shore, and in Fenwick history with 2,167 points.

The juniors also played a major role this season. Doug Lowe started almost every game and demonstrated leadership qualities on and off the courts. Shane Rein had his accurate three-point shots, and crowd favorite Scott "Pie" McKenzie provided the spark when this team needed it with his rebounding and blocks. Chris DiMambro and Keith DuPuis also showed that they can hold their own against any opponent. It will be a long time until another Casey Arena or another team with as much dedication and character as the Crusader team of 1991-1992 comes along.

Wondering if there's a hockey game? Just look for the cheerleaders in their white, brown, and gold sweaters, and then you'll know. These faithful Fenwick fans are at every hockey game showing their support, and cheering the players on to victory. The team is led by captains Danielle Shuckra and Suzanne Robitaille. Seniors Rebecca Martineau and Tania Diachisin also add inspiration. Leading up to the season, more than 50 girls tried out for only three positions on the squad, showing great support for the hockey team. The hockey cheerleaders don't have any competitions, but their hard work and dedication pays off in the stands during the games.

They are a squad consisting of 15 girls that we know as the Varsity Basketball Cheerleaders, and that's exactly what they are, leaders. You see them on the sidelines during games lending support to the team they love, and out on the court spreading their enthusiasm to the crowd with their electric smiles and synchronized moves. But Basketball Cheering involves much more than just standing along the sidelines. It is a sport that requires great amounts of time, dedication and school spirit.

Led by their coach Mrs. Fran Ward, and senior tri-captains Dena Caporale, Crystale Dion, and Denise D'Eon, the girls put in countless hours of practice to perfect their seemingly effortless routines, stunts, and dances to keep both their expectations and performance levels at their highest. The Fenwick Cheerleaders put their heart and soul into all they do and help keep Fenwick pride alive.

On Frozen Pond

The Bishop Fenwick Hockey Team had another fine season performing above all expectations and finishing with an impressive 5-10-3 record. Against overwhelming odds the young team consisting of five freshmen, seven sophomores, one junior and three seniors toppled such state hockey powers as Dom Savio, Marian, Pope John and Shawsheen.

The team also played hard-fought games against such state tournament teams as Amesbury, Austin Prep, Danvers, Marblehead, Matignon, St. Mary's and Swampscott. Furthermore, the Crusaders put forth a great effort against Peabody in the Carlin Cup game which is named after head coach Bob Tierney's uncle, the late Peabody hockey coach.

Regarding the season, Coach Tierney said, "I was pleased with the performance, the effort, and the record, considering we were such a young team."

Despite losing three excellent seniors in Darrin Estella, Sandy Calamo, and John Fortini, the young team continues to improve greatly. With a young team quickly growing in size, strength, and experience, the future couldn't look any better for the Brown and Gold of the frozen pond.

Life in the Fast Lane

With pride and determination, the boys and girls of the Bishop Fenwick swim team recovered well after the loss of key team members due to graduation last year. Throughout the season, every swimmer and diver tried hard to surpass his/her personal bests and found they could count on the rest of the team to cheer them on. Although the team finished fifth in the Catholic Central League and likewise in the league meet, the coaching of Mrs. Kathleen Callahan and the leadership of co-captains Sarah Callahan and Jason Gray made no loss a sour one.

Competing in a field of 39 teams, Bishop Fenwick sent seniors Jason Gray, T.J. Paras, and sophomore Stephen Caruso to the Sectionals, and managed to give the team a ninth place finish. Gray placed first in the 100 yard backstroke and 50 free style. Paras placed fourth overall in one meter diving as Caruso came in fifth for the 200 individual medley consisting of backstroke, butterfly, breaststroke, and free-style.

Meanwhile the girls also made a name for themselves as junior Sherie Sirois and the underclassmen prodigies Nicole Fiermonte, Gwen Callahan, and Shannon McMahon all placed at least in the top ten of their events. Sirois placed ninth in the 200 individual medley; McMahon came in ninth in the 200 free-style and seventh in the 100 breaststroke; Fiermonte placed eight in 200 IM and tenth in the 500 free; and Callahan finished eight in the 200 free and seventh in the 500 free.

The Bishop Fenwick swimming and diving team will continue to strive as long as it keeps the spirit and strength it had this year, and promises to be a threat to chief nemesis BC High.

Crashing the Gates

In their seventh year of competition, the girls' ski team managed to improve their record and also had fun doing it. Under the watchful eyes of Mr. James Day and Mr. Edward Tibbetts (who doubled their efforts this year for the first time by coaching the girls as well as the boys' team with the help of Mr. Robert Draper), the girls learned more about technique, racing, and especially good sportsmanship.

The team was led by racers Dawn Marino,

Cailin Kelleher, Amy Sozanski, and Kate Draper. Captains Kate Draper, Stephanie LaRoche, and Amy Palmer did an excellent job of guiding their teammates both on and off the slopes. Even though expectations are high for next season, the captains and seniors Alaine Bettencourt and Kathleen Brophy will be missed, since this year, on the cold slopes of Bradford Hill, many new warm friendships were formed.

Shushing to Success

Beginning with chair rides up "treacherous" Bradford Hill and ending with downhill runs at high velocities and risk of personal injury, the boys' ski team enjoyed another season under the coaching of Mr. James Day, Mr. Edward Tibbetts, and Mr. Robert Draper. If enthusiasm and determination were the only requirements for victory, the boys would have emerged undefeated this season.

The season's top scorer was Dave McGrath, who led the way with 105.5 points, followed by Scott Marino, Michael Tibbetts, and John Cunniff. Even though a strong nucleus of underclassmen are returning next season, this year's graduates will be missed, including captain Chris Carter and seniors James Curran, Thomas Day, Brian Mahoney, Dave McGrath, Michael Tibbetts, and Adam Wozniak. The boys displayed great effort throughout the season and the future looks promising. They may not have had a winning season, but they never lost their spirit.

A Different League

The Crusader boys' track team had a very different sort of experience this year: they finished the season with a losing record due to a tough move to the extremely competitive Dual County League. However, in order to understand the special season the team had, one must read between the lines. Although wins over only Marian, Lincoln-Sudbury and Bedford appear in the won-loss column of the D.C.L., Herculean individual efforts and team unity abounded. Captains Bill Nolan, Michael Tomas and Dan Walker provided leadership along with great performances. Nolan threw well in the shotput while Tomas greatly improved his forty yard speed and Walker ran consistently well in the 1000, placing in all meets. Upstart junior Matthew Hughes in his first season of track emerged as a force, tying the school record in the 40 yard dash, earning a strong sixth place finish in the shotput in the league meet and qualifying for the state-class meet.

Senior Gregory Sutton dominated competition in the high jump and also performed well in the 300 yard dash, qualifying for the states in both events. L.J. Patten, Alan Somes and Jason "Mr. Twelve Season" Jonikas also helped to lead the way in the shotput, hurdles, and the 1000 yard run respectively.

Yet aside from individual performances such as these, the team's morale throughout the season was admirable. Even though their final record was 3-5, the team was aware of the fact that this year's performance would have earned rave reviews in last year's Greater Lynn League. Next year will be a rebuilding one for the Crusaders due to the loss of numerous seniors, but under the guidance of Mr. Farley and his assistants, they should remain a force to be reckoned with.

The Girls Winter Track Team was off and running to a 1-6 season. Led by Coach Farley and captains Paula Mooney, Kerry McLaughlin, and Karen Murphy, the Lady Crusaders stayed close in each meet and finished in seventh place in the League Meet. The team was led by league champion and all-state qualifier in the 600 meters Karen Murphy, along with Amanda Larrabee, Paula Mooney, and Shawna Murphy. All three also competed in the state meet. Seniors who ran included Larrabee, Kim Serino, Daisy Chhatwal, Jodi Dorfman, and Francine Palazzolo. Despite a disappointing season, the girls worked hard to compete the best that they could. The Lady Crusaders are looking for a successful season next year with a talented group of underclassmen returning.

Chalking Up Experience

This year a first in Fenwick's short gymnastics history has been accomplished: a winning season. In only its second year, the Bishop Fenwick gymnastics team has improved tremendously. What was last year a team of six very determined young ladies has developed into a squad of fifteen talented competitors. Led by captains Johanna Saratora and Samantha Catanzano, the gymnasts improved their record from 1-6 to 4-2, and just missed qualifying for state sectionals. Two standouts on the team who qualified for sectionals as individuals were freshmen twin sisters Elyse and Elaine Keith. The duo provided an extra boost for the team by performing well consistently for the duration of the season. Another key to the team's success was depth. Freshmen Renee Brockgrieten and Maureen Nowlan provided the all-important third and fourth place finish scores. Coached by Fenwick graduates Michelle McMath and Lisa McCabe, the team consisted of numerous underclassmen, thereby ensuring a promising future. Many laughs and even tears helped the girls develop strong bonds in and out of competition, which will be essential for success in the years to follow. As Fenwick is slowly making its climb in the sport of gymnastics, watch carefully, for perhaps someday a state title will emerge.

Teamwork leads to the Nason

For the sixth year in a row, Bishop Fenwick has captured the Division Three Nason trophy. The award is presented in memory of the late Jerry Nason, former executive sports editor of the Boston Globe, and is presented to the school whose win/loss percentage in all sports is the highest. Fenwick has won the award nine times in the Nason's ten year history.

Although Fenwick is often noted for its girls' sports, the boys' sports have been equally successful in recent years, helping the Crusader teams to amass the necessary wins to beat out all opposition.

Fenwick looks to be on its way to earning an unprecedented tenth Nason Award this season.

Entertainment

The staff of The Shield had long been aware of the fact that people came to the fine eatery for one purpose: to sample some of the best food ever assembled on one place. However, being their typical overachieving selves, the staff embarked on yet another mission similar to the many other self-improvement quests completed many years ago. This quest was much different because The Shield's chefs were not setting out in search of a new dish, but rather, setting out to create the best mix of entertainment available in the area.

After searching high and low, the chefs succeeded in their quest, and in the process, revolutionized restaurant entertainment as we know it today. With a diverse blend of cabaret theater, full-scale Broadway shows and exciting routines, The Shield developed into not only a four-star establishment, but also into one of the most eclectic restaurants known to man. Entertainers encouraged patrons to get involved in The Shield's multiple activities, whether it was through active participation or through rousing ovations for a job well done.

This active approach worked very well. Patrons became involved and through their involvement became truly aware of what the staff of The Shield believed in: an atmosphere of family, closeness, and old-fashioned fun.

Peer Leadership

The Student Activities Council is an important part of the Fenwick community. Every day, you hear announcements about various class events such as ski trips, sleigh rides and pumpkin carving contests. All of these events are organized and coordinated by the SAC to spark and unite the spirit of every Fenwick student. This year, working under the guidance of Mrs. Callahan, class officers and committee chairpersons work hard to give students a wide variety of exciting events.

All of the various committees at Fenwick help to organize dances, parties, fundraisers, etc. Dress down days, a Fenwick favorite, are very successful in raising money for donations to good causes, such as the Sr. M.L. Burns Scholarship Fund.

The numerous activities planned throughout the year would not be successful without the time and effort of the Student Activities Council, the faculty, and the student body of the Bishop Fenwick Family.

A Wealth of Committees

The menu of social and extra-curricular events at Fenwick is so diverse that even the "hard to satisfy" customer can find something to order. Fenwick is known for its numerous committees that provide live entertainment for students every day after school.

The Social Committee meets regularly to plan some of the main attractions here at Fenwick. They are in charge of "packing them in" on dance night where the main dining room is transformed into a large dance floor. The decor is festive with ghosts and goblins at the Halloween Dance and mistle-toe and jingling bells at the Christmas Cotillion. The latest tunes pour from the speakers, and it's not long before you're captured by the beat and find yourself doing the "electric slide."

If dancing to the latest steps is not your forte, the menu at Fenwick provides you with many other options. The Athletic Committee is always overflowing with enthusiasm — especially during Spirit Week. Besides coordinating busses for away games or other activities to help students show support for our various teams, the Athletic tradition here at Fenwick. This week includes decorating the school with colorful posters and igniting everyone's spirit for the Pep Rally that includes live comic entertainment as students compete in class skits. The week culminates with the Thanksgiving football game between Fenwick and neighboring arch-rival St. Mary's. The Athletic Committee is a great way to utilize the talents of many students and teachers to show our unbeatable school spirit!

Amnesty International, a recent addition to the menu of attractions at Fenwick, provides students with an opportunity to get involved with the major issues facing society today. Committee members, as well as other students, can attend conferences at Boston-area universities to discuss various subjects including human rights, the death penalty, and world peace. Amnesty International members can also attend local rallies to help advocate public awareness of such social concerns. Amnesty provides students with an opportunity to help protect human rights for all people around the world. Although world peace still has a long way to go, the efforts of these students take us a step in the right direction.

The Cultural Committee is another option on Fenwick's diverse menu that organizes cultural activities outside of school to expose Fenwick students to many different forms of culture in the world today. Members of the Cultural Committee have taken trips to local art museums to observe famous works of art and have attended theatre productions in Boston, including Shear Madness. The Cultural Committee, together with the Student Council, plan school wide events such as the lip-sync contest to encourage the special talents and abilities of the whole student body.

These committees, diverse as they may seem, have one common goal — to provide Fenwick with a wide variety of events and activities to choose from. This not only gives the students several different options, but also gives the school its unique character. There's always something on the menu to "tickle your fancy".

Lending a Helping Hand

Fenwick is full of activities. Whether you're interested in sports, drama, writing, or the environment, you are sure to find the club for you. If you are one of the people who enjoy giving of yourself for the benefit of others, think about joining the Outreach Committee.

The Outreach Committee, a branch of the Campus Ministry Office, is the group behind such yearly events as Adopt-A-Child, Haven from Hunger, and the Oxfam Fast. This year, along with the Apostolic classes, Outreach helped numerous people through its annual Thanksgiving food drive. This club brings out the best in the students and shows the community that Fenwick cares.

Under the guidance of Sr. Lisette Michaud, the Outreach Committee is run by Susan Dembowski, Rebecca Farrell, Kristen McNelly, and Danielle Shuckra. This year has been a rousing success, and in the future the club hopes to build on an already successful program.

Lights, Camera, Action . . .

The Drama Club is a group open to members of all four classes. Many people believe that this club is just for performers, but that's not true. For both the fall and spring productions, there are many people working behind the scenes on costumes, props, sets and other details.

The Drama Club includes elected officers who work extremely hard to keep activities running smoothly. This year's officers included Alice Reagan (President), Amanda Rossi (Vice President), Kim Sartori and Jason Moore (Secretaries), and Kristin Mikolajewski and Jeff Connelly (Treasurers).

This year's fall production of The Curious Savage, directed by Mrs. Nancy Patch, was a huge success. The cast and crew devoted countless hours to make such an enjoyable performance. An equal effort was turned in for the spring production of Once Upon a Mattress, directed by Mr. Robert Sousa.

Environmentally Aware

The newly formed Environmental Action Committee is a student organization which tries to promote increased awareness of today's environmental issues. In addition, the group tries to put ideas into action by direct involvement in a variety of activities, including a clean-up day of the school's grounds, monitoring of the school's recycling program of white paper and aluminum cans, and providing the initiative to stop using styrofoam plates in the cafeteria.

The group tries to educate themselves first and then relay this message that is a part of their weekly announcement. Furthermore, the group has associated itself with companies that produce environmentally safe products. This has been accomplished by the E.A.C.'s endeavors which were used to purchase such books as 50 Simple Things you can do to Save the Earth and Shopping for a Better World.

Simply put, the E.A.C. feels it is important for young people to promote an environmentally safe world for present and future generations. It was because of this concern that we hope the E.A.C. will always be a part of the Fenwick Curriculum.

Applied Science

The Science League is an academic club that competes in the North Shore Science League against area high school teams in various scientific events. It is also made up of students who seek to further their knowledge of science and its importance in the world today.

Once a month, Fenwick students test their knowledge of biology, chemistry, physics, earth science and current events against 20 other schools. Students are grouped in fours and, although there are some test taking events, apply their scientific expertise to complete a hands-on task. Egg drop, instant invention and bridge building are a few examples of the hands-on events.

The competitions are low pressure (the guessing event is an example of this), but allow students to expand their knowledge of the various roles science plays. The events also prepare students for the science of tomorrow.

A 'Spirited' Week Rallied to Win

Once again, Spirit Week proved to be one of the most electrifying events of the school year. Most people think Spirit Week starts the Sunday before Thanksgiving — but they're wrong. Students begin discussing plans for class skits and wall decorating as early as September.

Enthusiasm and artistic ability turned the drab walls of the cafeteria into masterpieces of creativity. When students returned Monday to begin the week, they found the cafeteria to be alive with color and character. Particularly impressive was the effort of the sophomore class, which "Rocked the School" with their creation.

By Wednesday morning, all last minute skit changes were finalized and the auditorium walls could barely keep in the enthusiasm. The Freshman class "pumped us up," the sophomores "energized" us and the juniors predicted the Crusaders would beat St. Mary's 93-0 (and weren't too far off). However, it was the senior class, with the help of Bill & Ted, who showed Fenwick what spirit really is — using the 70's, 80's and 90's as examples.

For the grand finale, the award-winning Fenwick football cheerleaders performed one of their championship routines. All Fenwick students left spirit week with enthusiasm and a sense of school pride.

— Amy Carpenter

Clockwise: How do you do this? Deborah Burba has a little trouble pinning on Tom Day's flower. It keeps going & going . . . Eric Blais and the sophomore class never run out of enthusiasm. Air guitar dudes, James Curran (Bill) and Kerri McGill (Ted) play some bodacious radical tunes!

Clockwise: We're gonna rock you! Perry Hallinan and Michelle Cormier display their award winning wall. Fancy footwork. The freshman class struts its stuff on stage. Word! Julie Torraca rocks the auditorium with her version of KLF. A giant pyramid. The football cheerleaders perform the dazzling grand finale to their routine.

Deck the Halls

Clockwise: Delightful Duo: Tony Bettencourt and Bethany Kiricples take a time out from dancing to strike a pose. Lean on me: Karen Murphy, Erin Morrison, Rebecca Martineau, Kelley Dionne, Deborah Burba, and Bethany Kiricples assemble in the middle of the dance floor. The Quintessential Couple: Pat Robinson and Tara Caniarda smile pretty for the camera. Dance Fever? A group of seniors heat up the cafeteria with their amazing dancing ability.

Clockwise: Put on your sunglasses! John Nunes and Karin Bettencourt's smiles light up the night. Another Astaire and Rogers? As they float across the dance floor, Derek Wong and Sheila Walsh could give dancing lessons by their example. Friends Forever: Tania Diachisin and Karen Murphy show their closeness. Too Cool! John Nunes, Mike Varoudakis, Mark Swiniarski, Casey Arena, Jay Gray, and Pat Robinson show off their manly ways. Three's Company: Jay McIsaac, Megan Day and Tony Bettencourt prove that three definitely is not a crowd.

Crusader Caroling

The stores might suggest that shopping is a sign of Christmas, but at Fenwick the Christmas Concert is a true sign that the holiday season is upon us.

The Concert Choir, Band, Chorale and Chorus combined to entertain the Fenwick community on December 11. Mr. Jeff Patch again masterfully served as director, blending the talents of the four distinct groups.

A good-sized crowd listened as the traditional favorites were performed. The concert finale included junior Nancy Silveira playing the drums as the full chorus, concert choir, and chorale sang "Go Tell It On the Mountain." Though there were less performers than in past years, their effect on the audience could not have been greater.

Music to our ears: Kelly Doherty helps to provide those melodious sounds. Tuning up: The assembled choir gets ready to sing.

Clockwise: May I help you? National Honor Society members Julie Carnevale, Michael Tibbetts, Amy Britt, and Susan Dembowski serve refreshments after the Concert. "We're waiting for your cue, Maestro." Jessica Hale and Ariel Crane prepare to start the next song. 1, 2, 3, 4 . . . Kellie Kalagher nervously counts the measures till she has to play her solo. Good posture is important. Kristina Scanzani, Jennifer Gustafson, and Jeanne D'Entremont stand up straight.

Power of the Press

One of the most recent additions to the menu of attractions is The Crusader Chronicle. In only its second year at Fenwick, the newspaper has been very successful in incorporating the ideas and works of students from all four grade levels.

Published every few months with the help of the Beverly Times, each eight page edition is crammed full of sports highlights, class notes, editorials, cartoons, and individual articles about recent Bishop Fenwick events. It provides an opportunity for all students to express their thoughts, ideas, or talents or to suggest any changes to make our school a better place.

The Crusader Chronicle also published a special edition, just about the graduating senior class. Articles include what the class of 1992 has done over the past four years and what the future may hold.

Focusing In

The Bishop Video Club has grown in size from a small beginning of four members in 1987 to a current membership of over 30 students. The purpose of the Video Club is to provide any organization, class or club with a video tape of any of their events.

During the past year, the club has supported the Athletic Department by taping various games and providing the coaches with a tape immediately after their game for post-game analysis. The Drama Clubs' productions, Christmas and Spring Concerts, Liturgies and special events such as Operation Charlie and Freshman-Senior Buddy Day are also taped. The Video Club also produces a seven-to-eight hour tape of all senior activities. The tape is then offered for sale to all seniors, providing the club with funds to replace equipment depleted over the course of the school year.

The 1991-92 officers include Mary Beth Devarenne (President), Jason Jonikas (Vice-President), Ursula Burrell (Secretary), and Kerri McGill and Jessica Jaworski (Producers). A number of underclassmen also serve as producers/directors. The club advisor is Mr. Anthony Juliano.

Number Crunching

Whether it's participating in the monthly in-school math meets or being a member of the traveling team, the Math Club offers a competitive challenge for Fenwick students.

Once a month, students gather in Mrs. Russo room to try their best on problems ranging from geometry to algebra to trigonometry. Some students go for the extra credit, while many go just for enjoyment. Either way, the competition helps to sharpen members' mathematical and logic skills.

Students who participate on the traveling team compete against similar students from nearby schools in numerous areas of math at various level of difficulty. The more challenging, the better!

Thanks for the Memories

Deep within the recesses of Bishop Fenwick, a select group of mad scientists has assembled. Collectively, they have one mission: to enclose the countless events of a school year into one small volume. Many arduous hours are spent in a dwelling resembling a large closet. Few know where this chamber is; fewer still have passed through its doors (Nate Wormstead is an exception). When the opportunity arose, fourteen young men and women answered the call to complete the mammoth undertaking of producing the school yearbook.

As the school year began, the yearbook was faced with a challenge: only three of the editors had any previous editor experience; many had no yearbook experience at all. The advisor, Mr. Bloom, an English teacher and newspaper aficionado, was also an admitted novice at yearbook production. This immense obstacle proved to be minor when the editors' enthusiasm propelled them forward.

From their secluded room, the editors often heard faint cheering, although the basketball cheerleaders were not cheering for them. In that respect, the yearbook is a thankless job. There are no screaming fans, no game jerseys to buy or league championships to win. There is no real reward, save the satisfaction of creating an exceptional product.

The invaluable staff enabled us to incorporate all viewpoints of Fenwick life into the yearbook. The editors supervised their staff's work and had an outlet for their own creativity. Mr. Bloom was successful in his rookie campaign as advisor. And Bishop Fenwick once again has a masterpiece that it can be proud of.

THEN (c. 1962)

What's Cooking Today?

Clockwise: In the year of the first graduating class, the king of the prom crowns his queen. An early Fenwick attendant departs the school in a typical automobile of the day. The pep rally still poked fun at a Fenwick football rival. These beautiful cheerleaders helped motivate their men on the field. This student looks slightly overdressed, but this was the school dress code. The cafeteria food does not appear to be any more appetizing.

NOW (c. 1992)

Clockwise: Thirty years later, Scott McKenzie and Shane Rein drive away from the school as Greg Lowe looks on. Our current cheerleaders may be more exciting than ever before. Alan Somes' clothes may be different, but those lockers look the same. There is no king or queen now, but Kerri Fields and Stephen Legro would certainly be top candidates for these posts. Holly Rotundi reluctantly selects the soup of the day. Though the format has changed (slightly), the pep rally still has a similar effect on the football players.

Just What the Doctor Ordered

This past year, the world lost someone very special. Theodor Seuss Geisel, known to children and adults alike as Dr. Seuss, passed away at the age of eighty-seven. Dr. Seuss was the creator of forty-some-odd children's books that not only helped children learn how to read, but also served as meaningful allegories with a social punch for their adult friends. However, in the context that we knew Dr. Seuss in our childhoods, his work was simply good fun that made reading enjoyable.

No one among us could ever forget The Cat in the Hat or Sam-I-Am in Green Eggs and Ham. These characters transformed complicated concepts (at least for small children) into a story that we could all relate to. Green Eggs and Ham was and still is a God-send for all of our parents who couldn't get us to try that lovely broccoli dinner. Once we heard the main character finally acquiesce to Sam-I-Am when he said: "If you will let me be I will try them. You will see," we realized that broccoli pizza really might not be that bad. We were even further convinced that all strange vegetables might not kill us when our beloved protagonist began his three page dissertation on the various locales where he would eat green eggs and ham. "I like them, Sam-I-Am! and I would eat them in a boat. And I would eat them with a goat . . . And I will eat them here and there. Say! I will eat them ANYWHERE! I do so like green eggs and ham! Thank you! Thank you! Sam-I-Am!" Oh, the innocence of youth!

However, in some of his other works, such as The Lorax, Seuss delved into much deeper issues such as deforestation. The character of the Lorax was the sole protector of trees in the land of the Truffula Trees inhabited by such gentle creatures as the Swomee Swans and the "Brown Bar-ba-loots frisking about in their Bar-ba-loot suits as they played in the shade and ate Truffula Fruits." This Eden-like land, however, is disrupted when an opportunistic Once-ler enters this paradise with his Super-Axe-Hacker and hacks down all the Truffula Trees so he can make Thneeds to sell. This ruins the delicate ecosystem of the land and causes the Bar-ba-loots to get "the crummies because they have gas, and no food, in their tummies!" In this nonsensical story, Seuss skillfully introduces children to environmental issues.

It is doubtful that any one of us will read Dr. Seuss' books again until we have children of our own. As we prepare to face the challenges which we will encounter after graduation, wouldn't it be nice to think back to the days when our parents read his books to us on a nightly basis before bedtime? We could then become lost in the imagined worlds of the man who never had children but will live forever in the hearts of children of all ages.

— Dan Walker

Poetic License

The game we play is called "No Man's Land"
Only poisonous viles and repulsive aromas
Spiteful speeches and painful losses
No honest answers only deceitful lies
Propaganda is the method
Emotions are the targets

Aim yourselves and prepare to fight
Use your mind and see the light
Question our world and see for yourself
Rid this world of those useful and dreadful stealths.
Let the poor get more to survive
The middle get justice to stay alive
The rich get richer, but give a little more
Do away with your ignorance and let's not go to war.
We should be equal but why are we not?
Because racism and sexism have always been taught
Don't let this be a sequel or another history cycle.
I thought we lived in liberty and justice for all
But I don't think many can stand up tall.
Look at what we have done
Now we live in toxic waste, not a little but in tons.
You laugh in the caf and say it's a sham
One day I will find you and tell you what's in Spain.

— Karlyn Moon Kong

The Excuse

Last night I sat there at my desk
Trying hard to do my best
On a poem that I was asked to write
On that very fateful night.

As ideas scrambled through my brain
Suddenly, I felt a pain.
A gun was pointed to my head.
One false move, and I'd be dead.

A scarf was wrapped around my eyes.
This was not a nice surprise!
"But wait! My homework I must do Before I can abscond with you."

I was tossed, with little care,
Into a vehicle, parked out there.
Off we sped, to parts unknown.
This must be the Twilight Zone!

They threw me out upon a floor.
Oh, what tortures were in store!
I heard one called Jose speak,
Who slapped me once upon my cheek.

"What do you want?" They heard me shout.

"What is this all about?"

"To us, your secrets you must tell.
We know you are Pedro Miguel!"

"Miguel, Miguel, who is he?"

"It most certainly is not me!"

"You fool, Jose!" the leader said.

"You are the one who should be dead!"

"Take him back where he was found.
I don't need teenage kids around."

So once again I took a ride,
With pal, Jose, right by my side.

And so they threw me out the door
When I heard another engine roar.
My bus is here, and I must run.
Alas, my poem is not yet done!

So now, teacher, you've heard my tale
And I hope you don't make me fail!
Before, at me, you start to yell,
Please blame Jose, and Pedro Miguel!

No Strings Attached

A puppet sits in a corner
Watching the world go by
One day a man comes along and picks up the puppet
The two create magic together
One is happy when the other is
And one is sad when the other is But soon the puppet's strings begin to wear
With the pressures of the mimicry between the puppet and the man Frustrated that the puppet no longer obeyed him
He threw it into the corner
As time went by the man realized the mistake he made
And went back to the corner
When he got there, he saw that the puppet had developed
His own mind
His own feelings
And his own heart
With sadness in his heart, the man turned away
Realizing he was too late
Because now the puppet had
No strings attached

— Gina Lonkareas

Trust My Truth

You read what I write,
Yet believe not a word.
You saw my actions,
Though you called me absurd.
You followed me here,
and questioned my directions
No trust in me.
Yet no love or affection.
If you are real, if you are true,
You'd believe in yourself —
And trust my truth.

— Suzanne Duchane

To a Friend

You've always lent an ear to me
When I've needed to talk
You've always made a path for me
And showed me where to walk
You've always lent your heart to me
When I've most needed love
You've always been the push for me
When I've needed a shove.
You've always lent your shoulder
When I've needed to cry.
You've always been the person
On which I could rely Whenever I need strength,
Your hand you always lend
Just one more thing I ask of you,
Please always be my friend

Shelia McGoldrick

The Storm

An infant rain, not yet full-grown, drifts tearfully down the sides of the world
And its muffled cries, soft groans and moans, wrench the hearts of mothers asunder,
As the air is filled with peals of thunder.
The furrowed brows of clouds, foreboding,
scowl upon the wretched land.
With their lightning whips they strike at many trees, that wince at the sight of others
Struck, by Mother Nature's hand.
All four winds now join together — northern, southern, eastern, western,
To wreak havoc with the weather,
and make a jigsaw of the sky,
That falls in pieces with a sigh.

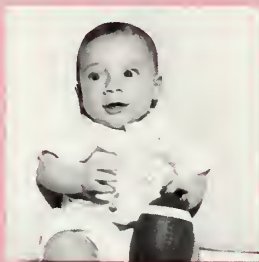

— Lisa Geraghty

All discerning food connoisseurs are aware of the fact that a meal of the caliber that The Shield produces on a daily basis does have a rather high price; however, this price is a small one to pay when one considers the many benefits that accompany a visit to the legendary restaurant. The Shield spares no expense in the preparation of each and every repast. Their famed chefs, although they could command a higher price, work for a small salary, and instead, take consolation in the multiple praises received at meals from their pleased patrons. The chefs also use the finest ingredients available in their numerous recipes. The Shield's proprietor is constantly searching for new and exciting items from throughout the surrounding towns and counties to add even more spice to the already zesty array of entrees, appetizers and side orders. The entertainment at The Shield does not come cheaply either. The eclectic mix of activities, designed to enable all patrons to participate in good, clean fun, is expensive to the establishment, but well worth any price.

As one can see, the operating costs at the restaurant are not small, so some of this expense must be passed on to the patrons. Yet, who can forget the trite yet popular saying, "You get what you pay for." At The Shield this is definitely true, and as all patrons can attest to, memories are priceless.
